Christian Science Churches

"Everlasting Punishment" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, May 2.
 The Golden Text will be, " whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap" (Gal. 6-7).
 Among the citations which will comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "I have seen the wicked in great power, and spreading himself like a green bay tree. Yet he passed away, and, lo, he was not Many sorrows shall be to the wicked: but he that trusted in the Lord, mercy shall compass him about" (Ps. 37:35,36-32:10).
 The lesson-sermon also includes the following correlative passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker

Christ Painting Graces Chapel

The above painting of Christ in "Victory," by Lt. Francis H. Beaugureau of the Timber Wolf Division, graces Chapel No. 9 at Camp

Adair. It is a beautiful work, and provides solace and inspiration for the many men who use the chapel each day.

The artist, Lt. Beaugureau, was born April 5, 1920, in Chicago. He attended the Chicago Art Institute and Frederic Mizen Art Academy of Chicago. He enlisted into the army in 1940. At the outset he was attached to the 106th Cavalry Division, stationed at Camp Livingston, La. From here he was sent to the 5th Corps Headquarters and in turn to Ft. Benning, Georgia. Since August, 1942, he has been stationed at Camp Adair.

His spare moments he devotes to his art, specializing in charcoal and oil portraits. His most recent work is that of General Moore, recently returned from Guadalcanal.

Eddy: "Sinners flourish like a green bay tree; but, looking farther, the Psalmist could see their end, — the destruction of sin through suffering Truth bestows no pardon upon error, but wipes it out in the most effectual manner" (pg. 5,11).

These Officers First To Arrive at Our Post

There is no record at our fingertips as to who was the first Enlisted Man to arrive at this Post, although we still hear of "the 400" out from Camp Dix, but in apology to error, the Sentry wishes to clarify the "fax" from last week as to who the first officers were.

All arriving the first two weeks of May last year, they were Col. T. A. Baumeister; Major Fisher J. Smith (then Captain); Major J. H. Brandt (then Captain); Captain Collins Carter (then 1st Lt.); 1st Lt. Wesley P. Hermann (number one to arrive, as 2nd Lt.).

3 Not (Enough) Company

Good news for a lot of men in England. In England right now there are exactly three WAACS. But in England soon there will be a couple of thousand WAACS. The present three are officers... legally out of bounds as far as dating enlisted men is concerned. Most of the new WAACS—when they come—will be enlisted gals. Barracks and accommodations are being worked out for them now.

Music Week!

May 2 is the starting day for Music Week. Miss Ann Caddy announces that Club 1 has prepared for this occasion. She reports that the Girls Triple Trio consisting of nine voices will be down from Salem during the week. Also Community Sings and glee club rehearsals will be featured.

Choir Rehearsal at Chapel 1 Every Tues.

Chaplain Irvin L. Whetsell announces that there will be choir practice at Chapel 1 each Tuesday evening. The Chapel is located at the corner of D and 3rd street North. Hour of the meeting is set for 7 p.m.

Chaplain Whetsell reported that the service will be for the purpose of rehearsing hymns to be used in the Sunday morning service.

"You are invited one and all," said the Chaplain. He explained that he was extending a special invitation to men of the Special Troops since he was sent here to represent them.

He further emphasized that it is not necessary to have unusual talent to take part in this service.

Out of the HQ. Well

By Cpl. "Dubby" Duboff
 Hq. Co. SCU 1911

George V. Mohatt, Camp Adair's Safety Engineer is always on the job. I know this for a fact, since the other day, while walking down the steps of Post Headquarters, I tripped and almost landed inside the ladies room, which is directly opposite the stairs. Was my face red, when I crashed into a charming young lady, who was coming out. I doubt whether I was successful in conveying the message of innocence across, by merely looking confused, apologetic, and meek.

(Ed. note: What does a meek look like, Corporal?)

She was such a nice girl, and I do hope that she didn't mistake the expression on my face, as being moronic.

The very next day Mr. Mohatt, personally directed the project of repairing the stairs. New boards were set in, and since I tried so hard to convince this girl that I was innocent, I do hope that she will be the first to notice this, and read this column simultaneously.

Eighty-four children, and school teachers, representing the Noti school Noti, Oregon, came to Camp Adair Monday afternoon. They bought enough War Bonds to pay for a command car, which was named after the school. It was an exciting day for the kids indeed, as they rode in the "Noti big jeep," chauffeured by yours truly, who was having as much fun as they were.

"Hey looka this, and looka that," the kids kept yelling, as soldiers with full pack and rifle, were double timing it through the streets, and while others were returning with machine guns, from the firing ranges.

The little girls (10, 11 and 12) were even waving, and whistling, as they marched by... I could hear one soldier whisper to his buddy: "They sure gonna have some young WAACS here, ain't Joe?" The soldier then waved back, and straightened his tie.

It was a beautiful day, and the children were overwhelmed, as they were given an M.P. motorcycle escort, to lead the parade of two Army cars, two trucks, and many private automobiles full of happy kids.

Lt. Louis J. Hanley, War Bond Officer smiled as the kids took charge of the camp. He paved the way for their admittance, and arranged their eventful afternoon to the very last minute of their departure. thanked them for their cooperation in buying War Bonds, and the great work they were doing in collecting 60 tons of scrap iron.

Lt. Hanley knew that these kids were the symbol of our America, and that as long as such patriotism and Americanism continues in this country, victory will be ours.

It will be nice to see children

FASHION NOTES

By 'ADELINE OF ADAIR

Fashion Notes by 'Adeline of Adair':—Your QM fashion reporter awoke early, if not especially bright, Eastern Morn, to rush to the QM 'chow line.' Don't get the idea by this time that I was hungry, because I was!! Another reason for this action was that this was the one spot, that I had decided on after weeks, I mean days, O.K.* It took me exactly two minutes to decide this was the one spot where I'd be sure to see all QM men, and facsimiles!!! The disadvantage of my position was that the parade passed by so rapidly. (That plus the fact that my eyes are bad anyway) I imagine the boys were a little hungry!!! (Imagines!! What an imagination!!!)

First thing that struck my style-hungry eyes, after the first ten chow-hounds hit me glancing blows going to their 'posts,' was the patriotism of these lads. Knowing the shortages of materials, they were all wearing last year's clothes! (At least those that were wearing clothes, were wearing last year's) Of course, a few had worked wonders with them. One fellow, in particular, had a really 'snazzy' ensemble! He wore an O.D. shirt, a pair of fatigue pants, an old cavalry hat, and a pair of Arctic overshoes! He was really out of this world. (If he wasn't, he should have been). Outside of the fact that they were all wearing last year's models, the one thing they had in common was—no vests! Once more their patriotism had surged to the fore. (I think). The predominant figure seemed to be something they called 'an SCU drape-shape.' (The three styles of this matched each letter respectively—S—C—U—) the next time you hear of 'round figures,' think of this QM. All in all, the Quartermaster Easter parade was a complete success. Credit for a whole lot of this success must go to the Supply Sergeant and the wonders he worked with his salvage allowance!

(Ed Note: After watching them in this parade, we suggest the next time you forget about the clothes and salvage the wearers!) Not having eggs to roll on the lawn, ala the White House, the QM rolled the lawn itself! (Where they got the strength, I'll never know!) They also acknowledged another great old Easter tradition. That is, the greeting of the dawn of Eastern morn. It's true that most of them were just getting ready to go to bed, instead of just having got up, but greet it they did.

Yes, it was a complete Easter Sunday here at Adair's SCU Quartermaster, even to the choral angle of it. Honesty compels me to admit it wasn't any aria by—sky but it was just as famous. While it may have been lacking in quality, the quantity was all a person could ask for. (And about all a person's ear drums could stand!) It was the last thing I heard as I wandered silently away from the scent, I mean, scene of my fashion footnotes. To a tempo that could only be called different, they put their hearts, souls, livers, gall stones, etc., the lyrics being: "When do we eat!"

Only since the 18th century have separate shoe lasts been used for the right and left foot.

again playing in summer camps, instead of Army camps, and hearing them talk about "Hits and Runs, instead of Japs and Huns."
