

These 270th Engr. Riflemen Collect Pin-Wheel Bulls

Trailblazers on Air From Service Club 2

Band and Orchestra Play, Soloists Star

With a Trailblazer announcer, Pvt. Manfred Ishmael, at the mike, "Oregon's Own" broadcast from Camp Adair went on the air over Station KEX last night with 70th Division musical talent filling the half-hour show. Service Club 2 was filled with an enthusiastic audience.

Following the theme song, "Oh Suzanna," the band, under the baton of W/O Lorn E. Christenson, played "The Colorado Concert March" and "American Youth March."

The dance orchestra, directed by Sgt. Bill Rhodenbaugh, played Cpl. Defenbach's arrangement of "Night Wind" and followed up with "If I Could Be With You."

Sgt. Don Miller and Cpls. Dave Black and Boz Cozine gave forth with a smooth trumpet swing arrangement of "Annie Laurie." Two solo numbers were Cpl. Fordyce Waldo singing "Home on the Range" and Cpl. Bob Kirkpatrick's

"Sunday, Monday or Always." A trumpet and trombone duet, with Sgt. Oscar Gareissen and Pvt. Powlen, played "Pavanne."

The dance orchestra played for dancing at the Service Club after the show.

General Cook Given 12th Corps Command

Temporary commission as a major general in August, 1942, prior to the activation of the Timber Wolf Division.

Wears Silver Star
Maj. Gen. Allen, the division's new commanding general, was also graduated from the United States Military Academy. In 1911 he received his commission in the cavalry. Gen. Allen wears the Silver Star Medal, awarded for gallantry and intrepidity in action, and an Oak Leaf Cluster on the Purple Heart.

The new commanding general also holds a permanent commission as a colonel and received his temporary, war-time commission as a major general in June, 1942.

Men Come First With New Timber Wolf Commander

"Time" magazine devoted three pages of its August 9 issue to Major General Terry Allen, who will soon assume command of the Timber Wolf Division, and some of the anecdotes contained in the article are interesting mirrors of the man's character and personality.

Gen. Allen was born into the Army as "an Army brat." His father was a colonel in the Regular Army, and his mother, the daughter of a Spanish colonel who fought for the Union in the Civil War.

With Allen his men always came first. At home in El Paso, he was forever getting up in the middle of the night to bail them out of jail. "My men never keep me waiting," he would say. "I won't make my men wait for me."

In 1942, he was promoted to major general and given command of the 1st Division, which had no superior in the Army, and in the opinion of its men, no equal.

The 1st went overseas early in the course of the war and was on hand at Oran when North Africa was invaded. They have since invaded Sicily under Gen. Allen's command.

Gen. Allen is aware that his men will get killed carrying out his orders and does not like it, but he has accepted the inevitability of it. He will spare or spend his men as military necessity demands, but while they live, he will see that they get every comfort and consideration.

When congratulated for any brilliant piece of work, Gen. Allen assumes no credit. He will say

New Major Eagle of Bakers and Cooks

Eagle Soars High; Food Shortages Not Into Oak Leaves Armed Forces Fault

Newly elevated to the rank of the wearers of the gold oak leaf is Major Myron B. Eagle, Assistant Commandant of the Camp Adair Branch, Ninth Service Command School for Bakers and Cooks. Designated as SCU 1929, it is the largest school of its type in the Ninth Service Command.

Appointed 2nd lieutenant in the Infantry Reserve upon his graduation from N. Dak. State College, Major Eagle became a 1st lieutenant in 1931 and, after being placed on active duty in 1935, received his captaincy in Jan., 1936. After some years as an inspector of CCC camps in the Ft. Lewis District, he was placed on duty with the Quartermaster Corps in Nov., 1941.

Other stations at which he has served include Ft. Lewis, Presidio of San Francisco, Ft. Douglas and Camp Cooke.

Major Eagle hails from Fargo, N. Dak., and has, at times, operated hotels and restaurants.

Community Sing Held at Hospital

A songfest for the Station Hospital Medical Detachment and patients was held last Monday night in the Red Cross Recreational Hall under the direction of Miss Madge Kuhwarth, social hostess at Service Club 1, who led the singing, Major Hertzmark and Lt. Saxton, Special Service Officer. Miss Winifred Thompson was the Red Cross nurse in charge.

The Red Cross furnished a band, under the direction of Sgt. Joe Sieff, which played during the program. Members of the band were Pvts. Dave Orwitz, Mack Sutin and Irvin Fishman of the Station Hospital and Pvts. Bill Keim and Kenneth Cool of the 70th Division.

simply, "You know who is responsible for that — the enlisted men, that's who."

Conservation Methods Effective, Says Major

"If the armed forces used no butter at all, each civilian would be able to have butter enough only for about two extra slices of bread per month."

Thus spoke Major Myron B. Eagle, Assistant Commandant of the Camp Adair Branch, Ninth Service Command School for Bakers and Cooks, in an address made before the Commercial Club of Willamina, Oregon. He had chosen as his subject, "Conservation of Food in the Armed Forces."

For those who blame food shortages on the armed forces, "there must be a realization that the total number of persons in these forces represents only about 6 per cent of the total population of this country, and the greatest possible amount of food that these people would eat would still be less than 10 per cent of our total production."

The point rationing system, he told his listeners, is binding on military personnel in much the same manner that civilians are affected and that "the ordinary person would not know the difference if he had the same food allotment as the Army has per person."

Major Eagle informed the members of the Willamina Commercial Club that the Army has attacked the problem of food wastage with amazing results. Referring to one of the units at Camp Adair, he said: "Actually the table waste of edible food is no greater, by the approximately 300 men who are fed in a mess hall, than in the ordinary family of six or seven civilians eating at home." This is due, in part, to careful preparation and the fact that all leftovers are completely utilized within 36 hours.

Anniversary Day For Post Adjutant!

NO, WEDNESDAY WASN'T a birthday for Captain Gilbert A. Waite, Post Adjutant, but in times like these it was more significant, for it marked one year of service at this Post. Nobody thought to whip up a cake but somebody stirred up a candle and the cup cakes seen in this picture. Since adjutants seldom have time to eat anyway, it didn't matter and Capt. Waite took time off to enjoy the girlish serenade being rendered by the "Post Secretarial Trio" — Faye Woodford, secretary to the adjutant, Marion Cleveland and Jean McReynolds.—Sentry photo.
