

Bond Buying Spurts In Trailblazer Drive

Division Draws Near Quota of $113,063

With nearly two weeks left to go in the 4th U. S. War Loan drive, seven outfits in the 70th Division are over their quota.

Topping the list is the 274th Inf. Regt., which has oversubscribed its cash quota alone by more than $10,000. Other infantry regiments are climbing steadily toward the "oversubscribed" mark.

Among other units in the list over the top are Division Artillery HQ, with a quota of $433, the 370th Medical Bn., quota $3600 and 70th division HQ quota $1504.

Headquarters Special Troops, Headquarters Company and the 70th M.P. Platoon are also above quota.

Lieutenant Shelby Dukes, heading the bond buying drive for the Division, expressed belief several other units still unreported may be over their quotas and urged unit chairmen to report to him at division HQ. Every indication points to the Trailblazers exceeding their quota of $113,063, he said.

275th Poised for Final Bond Push

To date, Hitler and Hiro are still cruising around on the thermometer in front of the regimental headquarters. However, according to Mr. Hawes, regimental War Bond drive chairman, it won't be long now before the boys shoot them down. The cash sales quota has been passed by well over a thousand dollars but the figures are not complete on the allotments as yet.

The watchword of the 275th in regards to the Bond Drive is "They shall not fly," and they are determined to knock the two rats off their posts.

Invest in the future. Buy War Bonds!

Wounded at Attu, 70th Sgt. Buys

$1,000 War Bond

A buck sergeant, a wounded veteran of the battle of Attu, and a thousand-dollar war bond formed the rare combination of patriotism, sacrifice and foresightedness that was found in the Trailblazer's 570th Signal Co. this week.

Sgt. Colin B. Harvey, slugged through the right side of his body during the first assault of his battalion up the steep sides of Massacre Bay, modestly-dismissed his purchase, the largest single one in his company, as "a good investment."

Representing his savings for some time, plus the sale of a small piece of property, Sgt. Harvey has this "good investment" plus bonds worth a few hundred more, purchased since he joined the Army nearly three years ago.

Tomorrow will be the third anniversary of his entrance into the armed service, beckoned by his Sonora, Calif., draft board, Feb. 19, 1941. He was with the 41st Division at Ft. Lewis, Wash., for several months, discharged under the old 28-years-of-age ruling before Pearl Harbor, called back in Feb., 1942, and sent to the 17th Infantry of the 7th Division.

When the 17th Infantry moved in to attack on May 11 last year, Sgt. Harvey worked in his battalion message center. Ordered to establish communications among the three battalions slated to take the area around Massacre Bay, Sarana Bay and Holtz Bay and into Chi-

Generals, Film Star Join in 'Valentine Bond Day' Rally

Signal Corps Photo
VALENTINE BOND DAY at Camp Adair, last Saturday, brought out combined efforts of the Post to sell war bonds. Featured on the broadcast sent out via KEX and KOAC were Major General John E. Dahlquist, 70th Division Commander, left, and Major General William G. Livesay, 91st Commanding General, shown at right. Above, a shot from the balcony of Club 1 during the speech of Victor Mature, former film star now a chief boatswain's mate in the Coast Guard. The 70th Division rhumba band provided music for the half-hour show.

ATTENTION! REPUBLICANS Hyde Park, N. Y. (CNS)—President Roosevelt has deeded his ancestral home and 33 acres of his land here to the United States government. The famed home, which will become a national historic site, banks on the Hudson River near Poughkeepsie.

Both service clubs are open to all the personnel of Camp Adair.

Valentine Bond Rally Broadcast From Post

"For it's Valentine Bond Day at Camp Adair!" With that catchword, military and civilian personnel of Adair, as well as visiting celebrities, joined in last Saturday's bond rally at Service Club 1. The half-hour rally was broadcast throughout the state over stations KOAC, KEX and KGW.

Highlighting the program was the appearance of both division commanding generals, Major General William G. Livesay, 91st, and Major General John E. Dahlquist, 70th, who spoke briefly over the air. They reported on the divisions' progress in Adair's 4th War Loan Drive.

Victor Mature, former film star now a chief boatswain's mate in the Coast Guard, related some of his experiences while on convoy duty in the North Atlantic for the past 15 months. Often referred to as "that gorgeous hunk of man," Mature said his pals in the Coast Guard call him "that gorgeous hunk of junk."

Featured vocalist on the program was SPAR Joan Weinburg,

Sgt. Harvey, who was assigned to the 70th Division last October, is again working in a message center, this time in Division Hdq., which the 570th Signal Co. operates.

formerly of New York city, who sang "Oh, What a Beautiful Morning." GI talent was furnished by Pfc. Bob Smith, 71st Evacuation Hospital, who sang "Embraceable You," and Sgt. Bill Rhodenbaugh, 70th Div., sang "My Ideal."

Music, including the theme, Irving Berlin's "Any Bonds Today," was furnished by the 70th Division's Rhumba band, under capable direction of Sgt. Matt Carnevale.

Coeds from Oregon State college, Peggy Keown, Alice Ann Bauer, Jeanne Harding, Ione Johnson and Darlene Fairchild, were on hand as volunteers to sell bonds during the rally. Authorized issuing agents from the U. S. National Bank of Corvallis issued bonds immediately upon purchase by GIs and civilians who crowded the rally.

The program was supervised by Mrs. Margaret Blodgett, director of Club 1. Announcers were Cpl. Bernie Smith, 361st Inf., and Sgt. Robert M. McDaniels, III Corps PSTU unit. The program was produced by Sgt. Jerry Lakefish, 91st Division SSO.

AGD Personnel Taking Part 100% In Bond Program

One hundred and eleven Adair civilian employees charged to the Adjutant General's Department are participating 100 per cent in the war bond program through the payroll deduction plan, it was announced yesterday by Capt. Gilbert A. Waite, AGD, Director of Personnel.

With 99 of the group allotting 10 per cent or more of their pay checks and an overall average deduction of 15 per cent for the entire group, this is a particularly fine record.

The group is made up of civilian employees in the following sections: civilian guards, provost marshal, military personnel, civilian personnel, fiscal office, rail transportation office, signal office, chemical warfare office and engineer property office.

ALL IN BONDS

Signal Corps Photo
ASK CARL A. JIREL, principal engineer with the Post Engineer Office, what he thinks of war bonds. He must know something because he puts all his salary right back into bonds.

She Buys

Signal Corps Photo
ONE OF THE first civilian employees to buy war bonds, pretty Irene Love signs up with Peggy Teitelbaum.

Mrs. Albert Buys

Signal Corps Photo
MRS. ANNA C. ALBERT, 69-year-old sorter at Post Laundry, has purchased a grand total of $1300 in war bonds under the payroll deduction plan since coming to work at Adair 14 months ago, $275 to further this Post's total in the 4th War Loan Drive.

Looking to the Future

Trailblazer Photo
SGT. COLLIN HARVEY of the Trailblazer 570th Signal Co. doesn't have to look into the crystal ball to see whether his bond investments will bring him good returns in the future. The veteran of Attu, holder of the Purple Heart, bought a thousand-dollar bond recently.

ago Harbor, Harvey was injured during the evening of the second day of the assault that demoralized the Japs and led to eventual victory.

Recent War Department General Orders highly praised the work of the 17th Infantry, and awarded them battle honor citations for group heroism and effective prosecution of their missions at Attu.