Cancer

Sufferers from this horrible malady nearly always inherit it - not necessarily | Louisville Times. from the parents, but may be from some remote ancestor, for Cancer often runs through several generations. This deadly poison may lay dormant in the blood for ears, or until you reach middle life, then the first little sore or ulcer makes its ap-pearance—or a swollen gland in the breast, or some other part of the body, gives the first warning.

To cure Cancer thoroughly and permanently all the poisonous virus must be eliminated from the blood—every vestage of it driven out. This S. S. SOME CURIOSITIES OF HABIT.

People Pull at Fairs of Hay, Straw,

Etc , from Mysterious Impulse. After counting that twenty-four out of thirty passers-by had pulled a wisp out of some one of the many bales of be gosh-almighty lucky .- Puck. excelsior piled up on the sidewalk, the traveling salesman looked up at the proprietor of the excelsior place, and catching his eye, they both began to laugh.

"How many does your count show?" he asked the salesman. "I noticed you Brooklyn Life. have been counting them, same as I do sometimes." And when the salesman told him the proprietor remarked that it was about the usual average, although he had often counted as many as nineteen out of twenty passers-by you? who could not resist the impulse to take a pull at the bales.

"It is a very funny thing. What makes people do that?" asked the young salesman.

"Well, I don't know, really, I just know this, however, that it is a confounded nuisance. I don't mind to have about fifteen to twenty-five pounds of my goods wasted every day just because a lot of people have no control over their hands, but just look at that sldewalk! You'd think it hadn't been swept for a month wouldn't you? Well, at sea $5,500, on shore $4,675. that sidewalk has been swept four times this morning.

"As I say, it isn't the stuff that's wasted I care about, but I don't want the bother of keeping the sidewalk free from excelsior, as my neighbor here next door insists when everybody that passes throws some down for my men years ago. to sweep away, and if I don't have it nomical instruments brought from done then my neighbors fight with me Pekin and now in the possession of about it. Song with a Sentiment.

People living around the vicinity of 5th and Chestnut streets had a good laugh one day last week. A little negro girl is in the habit of coming to the pump at the corner to get water. She brings her bucket along, and, being too small to handle the pump, she usually begs some passer-by to pump for her. They always accede. The other day she had reached her destination with sober looking gentleman passed, "Mis-

The gentleman instantly halted, put the tip bucket on the spout and starte to pump. As he did so, the negro bloomer began singing in a loud voice, "I'se got er white man wukkin' for me."

The familiar tune of the variety song struck the bystanders and passers-by, and they were convulsed with the situation. No so the pumper. He evidently did not know anything about comic songs of that character, and did not see the joke, for he went on pumping gravely until the bucket was filled and handed to its songful owner.

You couldn't get any of the fellows near there now to fill that bucket unless the girl could be bound over to keep the peace while they pumped .-

The wrist is the main machinery of the telegraph operator. Its musis worth considerable money to the rent. company. Not only can I send quicker, but I can send better Morse and with greater endurance."

His Conception of Punishment. Once when the Secretary of War, Elihu Root, had approved a punishment of an offender in the Philippines with a severity which seemed somewhat disproportionate to the crime, a visitor ventured to ask him whether he did not consider such a penalty a good deal like the old law of England, which banged a man for stealing a sheep. "Certainly," was the answer, "and we impose it in the same spirit, not as an expiatory sacrifice, but as a preventive. The thief was hanged, not because a stolen sheep was regarded as worth a human life, but in order that more sheep should not be stolen."
