

WALLOWA CHIEFTAIN.

ROCKE & BOE, Publishers.

ENTERPRISE OREGON.

All men fall in love, but most of them get up stairs.

Cherry has been president of Women's club for six years--and still is.

These Sains is rapidly becoming everybody's uncle in town newspaper.

Making out a bill against the State is one thing. Collecting it is another matter.

The Builders north pole party has been heard from. The letter was not dated at the pole.

A long suspension is seldom considered a loss by the family of the man with whom to associate.

Fee women are interested in the study of geodesic math. Their specialty is the map of the sky.

It is wonderful what a horse and a good trained dog can do when they are well trained.

Senator Connor is said to be very impetuous. Perhaps he means he was born to be the son of an impetuous.

The military congress was held in the city at night, and was so that students are presently studying.

A message was sent to the state to the effect that the military congress is likely to be an empty name.

A message was received from the state to the effect that the military congress is likely to be an empty name.

An English professor says that the incapacity of learning the Chinese language is due to the fact that Chinese may yet become the universal tongue.

The Senate is anxious to protect its dignity, and will do all in its power to do so. But the House will keep its membership will have to keep some.

Especially are said to be disappointed. It is still possible to see them in our larger stores if you don't care for your wife's remaining dresses.

Getting the gun man, his created a new that does the work of any horse. But what can the ordinary farmer do with a contrivance of that kind?

A prominent "editorial" in the East speaks of High School Latin and Greek as "stagnant relics." Never mind. The boy is able to forget the past quite easily.

Turkey is to be held responsible for the slaughter of Miss Jones. Turkey is already held responsible for so many things that the more of less will not make much difference.

We hope there will be no assembly anywhere over "marched." The idea of calling a woman program by that name seems to spontaneously in a hundred places at once.

The new kind of love that is well written, but which begins to love and not to love, can make a person mad enough to strike the other. No wonder we get back and read "lovers" to get the taste out of our mouths.

General Zane's Filipino millinery is reported to have offered $10,000 to each of the American army officers who will marry his daughter. Why does the general think the offer is American soldiers? Let him speak to some European and see if they will get like his offer.

The Marshall wireless systems are now in use on several ships and there are twenty five land stations. The Marshall company has been several hundred commercial messages every day for ships that have left port as well as for those coming in. The company claims to be a superior messenger safe when out of sight of land.

Lord Francis Hope, above mention of age, has spent $10,000, and being so old in the water, he turned over all his property and experience to a life insurance company which guarantees him an income of $10,000 a year for life. In this way he is assured a fair living and time to meditate on what a clump he has been.

Ordinance statistics now show that it cost $24,000 to transport General's squadron and $20,000 to blow Montezuma's out of water. Other statistics at Washington will show that the type-writing expense for the hearings affair made the subsequent expense fully as great as for the ammunition. But the official figures will fail to record what the two engagements cost in the way of heartburning, injured pride and reputations.

"Pink adorned with ambition, baked by one's love will always come out even without the almsy dollar." This is part of an inscription on a large card which hung in a conspicuous place in the largest wholesale notion house in the United States. It was written by Charles Broadway House, the founder of the business, who was known to the world as the "billed millionaire." And in the above quotation is the secret of his success. When he went to New York City in 1865 his entire capital was only $1.50. When he died at the age of 60 he was worth millions. "Pink" and "one love" did it. He worked at least twelve hours every day, six days in the week. He was always the first at his desk, and the last to leave. To him every minute counted, and he even spelled phonetically in order to save time. Each of his employees was expected to work seven hours a day, and each received his pay at the close of each day's work. When House closed his eyes at night it was his habit that he owed to him a dollar. His House paid weekly for his millions. He gained wealth and a place among the merchant princes of America, but in doing so he lost his original strength made him blind. He offered $10,000 to any one who could restore his sight. Many alleged remedies were brought forth, and he used a blind man at a large salary at which these remedies were tried, but none was effective. "Pink" and "one love" will not restore eyes, but if in the pursuit of the almsy dollar all time of health are thrown into the millions of a Rockefeller would not be worth lighting for. The man without great wealth and great health and with his strength is far more fortunate than the blind millionaire.

With the death of "Pink" House's name has passed a way the last of the old-time legends. By a curious coincidence "Pink" House, "Pink" West, "Pink" Emerson, and "Pink" Rose, and the "Pink" House, the only publisher representative left of the genuine home mark "Pink," died within a few weeks of each other. With the exception of Harry and Emerson, they were all men, but they preserved their sense of humor to the end. It was a genuine bit of humor of the same kind that inspired Theodore Tilton to his death. The legend of the "Pink" House is a story which has been told in many a way, and they will not be told again. With these men, however, the legend is dead. Perhaps it would be more correct to say that it passed away before they died. The legend of the "Pink" House is a story which has been told in many a way, and they will not be told again. With these men, however, the legend is dead. Perhaps it would be more correct to say that it passed away before they died. The legend of the "Pink" House is a story which has been told in many a way, and they will not be told again. With these men, however, the legend is dead. Perhaps it would be more correct to say that it passed away before they died.

General Zane's Filipino millinery is reported to have offered $10,000 to each of the American army officers who will marry his daughter. Why does the general think the offer is American soldiers? Let him speak to some European and see if they will get like his offer.

Not So Green as His Name. Prof. Hyle of the State University of California, who spent the holidays in New York, tells the story of himself, at the beginning of the last season, while calling the roll of his new school, he came upon the name Miss Green. He stopped and expressed his disapproval of the final s in her name by saying: "Green is a color, does that spell Green or green?" Miss Green responded promptly: "My name does that spell Hyle or hilly?" Then the roll call proceeded amid suppressed laughter.—New York Times.

A Poor Sort of Heaven. Fair Arrival—May I have a crown of the latest style? St. Peter—Fashions never change here. Fair Arrival—Dear me! I have made a mistake and come to the wrong place. I thought this was heaven.—New York Weekly.

WEST POINT.

United States Military Academy Is One Hundred Years Old--Greatest School in the World for the Training of Soldiers--Hard Study and Strict Discipline the Rule--Over Four Thousand Graduates.

The United States Military Academy at West Point is 100 years old. Originating in an atmosphere of doubt when the prospects for the school were dim, it has since become a leading institution of the United States. The academy has been distinguished by its high standards of scholarship, its strict discipline, and its thorough training. The academy has produced many of the nation's greatest leaders, and its graduates have served with distinction in every branch of the military service. The academy is a place where the future leaders of the nation are trained, and it is a place where the highest standards of scholarship and discipline are maintained.

GENERAL VIEW OF THE UNITED STATES MILITARY ACADEMY AT WEST POINT ON THE HUDSON, SHOWING THE ACADEMY BUILDINGS IN THE FOREGROUND, THE GREAT CAMPUS IN THE MIDDLE AND HUDSON RIVER AND HIGHLANDS IN THE DISTANCE.

When was then an army post. The academy and engineers of the army were made a distinct corps. It was established at West Point and was known as the United States Military Academy. The academy was founded by Congress in 1802, and it has since become one of the most distinguished institutions of the United States. The academy has produced many of the nation's greatest leaders, and its graduates have served with distinction in every branch of the military service. The academy is a place where the future leaders of the nation are trained, and it is a place where the highest standards of scholarship and discipline are maintained.

The average woman loves to boast that the money her husband gave her for new clothes she spent for "the house."

The present head of the institution is Col. Albert L. Mills, who has been superintendent since 1888. Among his predecessors have been Robert E. Lee, Peter G. T. Bessard, John M. Schofield, Thomas G. Rapier, Oliver O. Howard and Wesley Merritt.

The academy is a place where the future leaders of the nation are trained, and it is a place where the highest standards of scholarship and discipline are maintained. The academy has produced many of the nation's greatest leaders, and its graduates have served with distinction in every branch of the military service. The academy is a place where the future leaders of the nation are trained, and it is a place where the highest standards of scholarship and discipline are maintained.

Gen. Winfield Scott once said: "I give it as my best opinion that but for our graduated cadets the war between the United States and Mexico might, and probably would, have lasted some four or five years, with in its first half, more defeats than victories falling to our share; whereas, in less than two campaigns, we conquered a great country and established a peace without the loss of a single battle or skirmish."

Wife--You haven't used any of those cigars I bought for you. Husband--No; I'm keeping them for Tommy when he wants to learn to smoke.—Los Angeles Times.

One who makes an excavation upon his land is held in Savannah, F. & W. R. Company vs. Beavers (Ga.) 54 L. R. A. 314, not to be bound to so guard it as to prevent injury to children who enter upon the premises without his invitation, express or implied, but who are induced to do so merely by the attractive attractiveness of the excavation and its surroundings.

The owner of an uninclosed lot adjacent to a highway in a thickly populated part of a city who leaves unguarded thereon a heavy section of cement pipe of unstable equilibrium, which is an attractive plaything for children to roll about, and who knows that they resort there for that purpose, is held in Koppelboom vs. Colorado Cement Pipe Company (Colo.) 54 L. R. A. 284, to be liable to a child who is injured by the pipe toppling over as he while he is playing with it.

Where a man of 32 years of age, of more than ordinary intelligence, employed about a railway company's line for more than three years, and for more than a year accustomed to work in raising tanks from the floors of locomotive tenders by the aid of lifting jacks in attempting to reach certain blocks to support the tank, placed his feet and arms under such a tank, one of which he had raised and left supported by a jack only, which slipped and let the tank fall upon him, causing his death, he was held to have been negligent, and especially where it appeared that by a few steps he could have prevented the blocks without danger.

Wife--You haven't used any of those cigars I bought for you. Husband--No; I'm keeping them for Tommy when he wants to learn to smoke.—Los Angeles Times.

LATE JUDICIAL DECISIONS.

One who makes an excavation upon his land is held in Savannah, F. & W. R. Company vs. Beavers (Ga.) 54 L. R. A. 314, not to be bound to so guard it as to prevent injury to children who enter upon the premises without his invitation, express or implied, but who are induced to do so merely by the attractive attractiveness of the excavation and its surroundings.

In case a defendant once a resident of the State departs and resides out of it before a personal judgment against him, the time of his residence abroad is held in Hogg vs. Hartley (W. Va.) 54 L. R. A. 215, not to excuse the judgment from the statute of limitations, although he was a resident when the cause of action on which the judgment rests arose or accrued.

An attachment levied on real estate fraudulently alienated by the attachment debtor, even though the legal title of record is in another, is held in Wetherell vs. Hagg (Neb.) 54 L. R. A. 222, to create a lien in favor of the attachment creditor upon the interest of the debtor in the land attached, which he may enforce by appropriate proceedings after recovering a judgment.

One who beats a horse in violation of the statute for prevention of cruelty to animals is held in Osborne vs. Van Dyke (Iowa) 54 L. R. A. 297, not to be able to escape liability for an injury caused by a horse falling on a bystander on the ground that he used reasonable care to avoid the accident, which was caused by the slaying of the horse and the slipping of his own feet, and that such result of his acts was anticipated.

The owner of an uninclosed lot adjacent to a highway in a thickly populated part of a city who leaves unguarded thereon a heavy section of cement pipe of unstable equilibrium, which is an attractive plaything for children to roll about, and who knows that they resort there for that purpose, is held in Koppelboom vs. Colorado Cement Pipe Company (Colo.) 54 L. R. A. 284, to be liable to a child who is injured by the pipe toppling over as he while he is playing with it.

A municipal corporation owning and on a navigable lake and its non-navigable outlet is held in New Whitson vs. Fairhaven Land Company (Wash.) 54 L. R. A. 190, to have no right to appropriate the waters of the lake for a municipal water supply, even under permission of the State, to the injury of a riparian owner whose rights vested before the adoption of the State Constitution, which asserted ownership in the State of the beds of navigable lakes, but provided that it should not deprive any person from asserting his claim to vested rights.

Where a man of 32 years of age, of more than ordinary intelligence, employed about a railway company's line for more than three years, and for more than a year accustomed to work in raising tanks from the floors of locomotive tenders by the aid of lifting jacks in attempting to reach certain blocks to support the tank, placed his feet and arms under such a tank, one of which he had raised and left supported by a jack only, which slipped and let the tank fall upon him, causing his death, he was held to have been negligent, and especially where it appeared that by a few steps he could have prevented the blocks without danger.

The Lost Thrill.

"He comes!" "He comes!" the boys shout.
And waterfalls in blue
Wave back the crowds where men grow out
And boys go squirming through:
They cry, "He comes!" and distant drum
Give time for marching feet--
Behold the guards who lead the way
Come proudly down the street.

Men stand upon their toes to see,
And wave their hats in air--
But what is all this fuss for me?
And who is passing there?
Erst and proud he views the crowd,
I cannot cheer him, though,
As I could cheer the splendid, big
Drum major, long ago.

Here passes one whose fame has spread
Where'er men abide:
There's grandeur in his pose of head,
And in his breast is pride;
But when, at last, the guards have passed,
Unheeded, I turn away,
Forgetting that my gaze has been
Upon the great to-day.

The years have robbed me of a joy
I'd never regain, alas!
Oh, for the ardor of the boy
Who sees the warriors pass!
Oh, that I still might have the thrill
Which sets my cheeks aglow
When glory entered in the big
Drum major, long ago!
—Chicago Record-Herald.

How Papa Feit.

"This," said the (Mad father to the dermatological expert, "seems to be a pretty big bill for the treatment you have given my daughter."
"It is a difficult treatment," explained the skin doctor. "You see, we had to remove all the cuticle from her cheeks and graft a new epidermis upon them."
"Well," said the father, reaching for his check book, "I don't know which one of us you skinned the most."—Baltimore American.

A Sure Cure.

Wife--You haven't used any of those cigars I bought for you.
Husband--No; I'm keeping them for Tommy when he wants to learn to smoke.—Los Angeles Times.

Ninety-nine men remain hopelessly poor waiting for a fortune to fall in their hands, where one is made rich by the longed-for transmigration of a dried-up uncle.