FRUIT.

Harvest is about over save the second cutting of alfalfa. This will be ready for the sickle in two or three weeks.

The past two weeks have been checked off by a sun of unusual warmth, but the nights were cool and invigorating. What a blessed boon to him that toils all day long beneath a hot sun, is the cold, strength restoring night that follows the day! We have never known a night so warm in the Park that one did not need a heavy blanket or a coverlet spread over him.

J. A. Balter has leased Lewis Neal's ranch for a term of three years. The rental price is $250 in cash per annum.

Mr. Neal will dispose of his cattle and then take a long needed rest. His life has been one of constant activity. When a mere boy he joined the volunteer service against the Indians of Oregon and Washington in 1855-6. At the close of the war he engaged in farming and stock raising which he has followed up to the present time. No man can point to Mr. Neal and say truthfully, "There is a man that owes me a dollar and won't pay me." Let him rest, sweetly rest; and he will if the young widows will let him alone.

It is said far up the Hells Canyon huckleberries will soon be ripe and plentiful. The numerous peaks of steep that range through the mountains in summer time, are fast destroying the bushes that bear this delicious fruit. Sheep eat away the leaves and the bushes die for want of air as all vegetation breathes through its leaves.

A trailblazer rode into Joseph town not long ago, the flanks of his horse showing how cruelly spurs had been applied to them—Lee C. Henderson, Ed. of the Joseph Herald, in referring to the incident characterized the spurring as "unwanton cruelty." I give it up—un. Webster says, negatives the sense of a word when used as a prefix. His definition of wanton is sportive; licentious; to revel; a lewd person. Will Lee C. Henderson, Ed. of the Joseph Herald "put the folder down so we can all nibble?"

The red face has made his appearance in our midst again. Mr. Geo. Gowing and wife are visiting friends in the Park.

John Guyan is out for supplies for the sheep camps.

The last Chieftain failed to come on its usual schedule time.

Nearly all are through haying and those that are not will be this week.

WALLOWA.

Everybody gone huckleberrying.

Mr. Himmel is having his house raised and will have a porch built. This will greatly improve the looks of his already neat little cottage.

There will be a basket dinner at Wallowa Springs next Sunday. Rev. Martin will conduct the services.

T. B. Day, of Lost Prairie, passed through town last Wednesday on his way home from Elgin where he has been at work for some time.

Myrtle Williams is visiting at Flora this week.

Mrs. Imlah is quite sick this week.

Chas. McDaniels took down with the smallpox last Monday. He was removed to a tent south of town and a strict quarantine placed on him and his house.

Rod. McCrae and Wm. Bishop have some very fine yields of wheat this year. They estimate the yield at 40 bushels per acre at the least.

A. McMullen and family of Wallowa and David Harris and family of Lostine started Tuesday for California. They expect to travel for about a year. Mrs. Harris, of Powowka accompanied them as far as LaGrande where she will visit about a month before returning.

Friday will be the 64th anniversary of wedded life for Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Alexander, of Wallowa. Mr. Alexander is 87 years old and Mrs. Mc will soon be 54.

The moving of Wm. Sherod's store has been completed and it is now on its new foundation. To show that the men understand their business of moving buildings we will just say that a pendulum clock sitting on a shelf in the store was not stopped by the process.

SOMETHING ABOUT MAN.

Woss That Beset Him and Troubles That Make Him Afraid.

Man that is born of woman is of few days and full of miseries. Headaches and bill collectors follow him all the days of his life. He sleeps from his bed in the morning his foot is pained by the lack of disappointment. He walks through the streets in pride and glory of his manhood, and slippeth on the pebbled misfortune and injurious hills neck he is biting by the mosquitoes or gnawed by the bed bugs of affliction by night.

What a mean bat blind winter to see his days numbered by girdles of pain, and his years by seasons of mourning. In his infancy he crounches over with woe and sole, and in his old age gnawed with rheumatism and growing toe nails. He married a cross-eyed woman because her father has a bank account, finch she has temper like a buzz saw. He exalteth himself among people, and swelleth with pride, but when the votes are counted he finds that he is not in it. He trusteth in the promises of the man who standeth high in the synagogue and getteth the marble heart and glassy eye; for behold his friend runneth over with deception.

Hiss seed multiplieth around him and crieth for bread and his sons getteth in the penitentiary, and when they gette home all the people chaseth them and howlith for blood. What is man but a painful waste on the heel of time, a speck of dust on the nose of fate.—Ex.

A Big Fire Loss at Elgin.

LAGRANGE CHRONICLE—Bert Woods' very stable, at Elgin, was destroyed by fire, which broke out a little before twelve o'clock Sunday night. The barn and contents was practically a total loss and four head of horses were burned. One horse belonged to Mr. Woods, two to Dr. Kirby, of Elgin and one to G. M. Richey, of LaGrande. Mr. Richey also lost a piano wagon, a sewing machine wagon and a covered buggy. His total loss will reach $800. Mr. Woods, the proprietor of the establishment, will sustain a loss of not less than $2,500 and his insurance is only $600.

It is not known how the fire originated. Mr. Woods was sleeping in the barn, and woke up when the place was enveloped in smoke and flame. Bert Terry, a LaGrande boy, was also asleep in the barn. The boy could not be aroused when called, and Mr. Woods threw him out of the window onto the sidewalk. The liverman and the Terry boy released all the horses they could and eleven head were saved. While engaged in this work Mr. Woods was struck in the head by a horse and knocked senseless to the floor. He recovered barely in time to save himself by crawling out of the barn. In fighting the fire Henry Bader was severely burned on the face and hands.

The adjacent buildings, including the stage barn and the Keeray hotel, were on fire, but the fire department succeeded in confining the loss to the livery barn. This work was delayed by the discovery that several sections of lise had been stuffed with pieces of sacks and rags. The motive for having placed the fire apparatus in this condition is not known, but it easily believed to have any connection with the burning of the barn.
