Wallowa County.

IMNAHA.

Last week.

The atmosphere has been quite smoky but is clearer at this writing.

Joseph Melotte and family have moved into their new house.

One or two cases of small pox in this neighborhood and nearly every one is taking precautions in the form of cream of tartar.

Mildred, the young daughter of J. D. Hamilton was quite seriously burned recently. She was setting by the stove when she fainted and fell over on it upsetting a coffee pot of boiling water on herself scalding her right side, hand and arm. Remedies were promptly applied and at present she is getting along as well as could be expected.

Mrs. Henrietta Reams has rented Mrs. Belle's house and with her children is keeping house while she teaches. School began September 15.

Bert Sprague left last week for Salem to place his seven-year-old daughter, Susie, in the deaf and dumb school at that place.

It is rumored that Joseph Hayes, Sr., has sold his ranch for $10,000.

The men of this vicinity worked out their road tax recently by placing a new floor on the bridge.

The winter apple crop is short this season.

L. J. Rouse, of the Chieftain, was down on the Imnaha, during the last week.

Melotte Bros. have their third crop of alfalfa stacked.

There are numbers of people passing daily with loads of fruit and melons.

FRUITA.

Last week.

Will Balter is herding sheep in the vicinity of Red Fir Springs.

It is reported Esq. Marks has small pox in his family.

Mrs. Sims and daughter, Miss Daisy, of Upper Prairie Creek and Mrs. John Boner, of Scotch Creek returned to their respective homes last week after a delightful sojourn of a fortnight with Mr. and Mrs. Jim Guyan, of near Fruita.

A forest fire 15 miles in width has been raging in the brakes of Snake river for two or three weeks just above the Seven Devils on the Idaho side of the river. The timber destroyed had no commercial or local value by reason of its inaccessibility but the immense grazing area, totally destroyed, is a serious loss to stockmen over there.

The first killing frost for September visited Fruita the night of the 16th. Corn, beans and squash vines lie all withered and dead.

Miss Liddie Martin, of Joseph, has been carrying the mail from Imnaha to Fruita and back the past week. Lou Warnock, the contractor has been and is hauling 10,000 feet of lumber from C. W. Meek's sawmill on Prairie Creek to Imnaha with which to build a hotel. Lou will be the host and he has hosts of friends.

Harry Hope, a young man well and favorably known by a recent deal became owner of the Freeze-out sawmill and the James Wisner Homestead. By a later deal John Owen became leaser of these properties. Mr. Owen next spring will push this mill to its fullest cutting capacity.

FRUITA.

Mr. and Mrs. English, of Enterprise, are among the busy workers at F. F. Rich's big orchard.

Sam Adams is almost ready to raze the old log cabins in which he and Mrs. Adams have lived and entertained so long. The material is waiting the builder of the new residence which is to supplant the old.

Mrs. J. A. Blevans claims the blue ribbon for the biggest potato grown on the Imnaha or in any other section of Wallowa county during 1902. It weighs 3 lb. 8 oz. It is known as the L. J. Rouse potato.

Marion Coverdale, wife and little daughter, Lulu, after spending several days pleasantly with friends and kindred on Upper Prairie Creek passed through the Park last week enroute to their home on the river 20 miles above Fruita.

The first snow of the season to gray the mountains around the Park fell on the night of the 24th ult. since then cold south winds have prevailed that presage snow on the mountains and rain below.

W. G. Beith, one day last week had reached the last hard pull on Saddle Ridge Hill when the double trees broke and there being no stay chains to the wagon it shot back down the road as if thrown from a catapult. Walt threw on the brakes and jumped. The point of the tongue slued to the embankment which brought the wagon at right angles with the road. By this time the wagon, with its 14 cwt. of salt, flour, sugar, beans, etc., had gained such momentum that it turned over and over broadside, down the road, its contents spilling out at each turn of the wagon till all was spilt. Had the tongue slued the other way, wagon and contents would have gone into the river, 80 rods below. Walt is giving his spare moments to the inventing of a doubletree that won't break.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Tom Shevlin, Sept. 20, 1902, a son.

Die!, Sept. 20, 1902, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Shevlin.
