BISHOP SCOTT ACADEMY General Health Greatly Improved by Pe-ru-na.

MRS. M. J. DANLEY.

Mrs. M. J. Danley, Treasurer of the Rebecca Lodge, I. O. O. F., writes from 124 First St. N., Minneapolis, Minn : 'I was afflicted for several years with kidney trouble which became quite serious and caused me considerable anxiety. I spent hundreds of dollars trying to be cured, but nothing gave me any per-manent relief until I tried Peruna. It took less than three months and only ten bottles to effect a permanent cure, but they were worth more than as many hundred dollars to me. I am fully restored to health, know neither sche nor pain and enjoy life."-Mrs. M. J.

This experience has been repeated many times. We hear of such cases nearly every day.

Mrs. Danley had catarrh of the kidneys. As soon as she took the right remedy she made a quick recovery.

The treatment of Catarrh with antiseptic and estringent washes, lotions, salves, medicated tobacco and cigarettes or any external or local application, is just as senseless as would be kindling a fire on top of the pot to make it boil. True, these give temporary felief, but the cavities and passages of the head and the bronchial tubes soon fill up again with mucus, Taking cold is the first step towards Catarrh, for it checks perspiration, and the poisonous acids and vapors which should pass off through the skin, are thrown back upon the mucous membrane or inner skin.

producing inflammation and excessive flow of mucus. much of which is absorbed into the blood, and through the circulation reaches every part of the system, involving the Stomach, Kidneys and other parts of the body. When the disease assumes the dry form, the breath comes exceedingly foul, blinding headaches are frequent, the eyes red, hearing affected and a constant ringing in the ears. No remedy that does not reach the polluted blood can cure Catarrh. S. S. S. expels from the circulation all offensive matter, and when rich, pure

LOST IN THE WOODS

mous Traveler. Every summer brings tragic tales of campers, hunters and summer tourists who are lost in the woods. A considerable number are never found. Others go insane from terror, hunger or cold. Even in the more fortunate cases the persons who are lost undergo intense nervous strain. George Ken- knitting."-Chicago Tribune. nan, the great traveller, gives some practical advice on this subject in a recent number of the Otulook.

When you discover that you have lost | that play you gave for charity?" your way sit down instantly. You have probably strayed but a short distance from the trail, because otherwise the branches of undergrowth would sooner have attracted your attention. Then with all your strength of will remind yourself that if you allow yourself to become panic-stricken and rush off aimlessly, you will only get deeper and deeper into the woods. In the thousand-square-mile forest tracts of Michigan or the Adirondacks or Maine you might never be heard of again.

The first act is to break the top of a bush and bend it over. The under side of the leaves shows such different tints from the upper as to be quickly noticeable. To this first bush tle your handkerchief for a base. Walk slowly away, breaking and bending over bush tops every ten or twelve feet for a trail, and never lose sight of your handkerchief. After a while return to your base and try another direction, always leaving a trail of bent bushes behind you. Shout whenever you return to your base.

In this manner one can usually find hls way to the beaten path in a few minutes, or be found by search-parties. Even children can and should be taught this simple lesson before they are allowed near large tracts of forest. Persons going deliberately into the woods to fish or hunt should always wear a small compacs suspended by a chain about the neck. In a pocket it is subject to too many chances of loss. If to the compass be added a tiny chamols bag containing a tightly corked bottle of matches, tweaty feet of

While one's advertising ought to be considered in the nature of a continued story, each advertisement ought to be complete in itself.

The crying weakness of modern ad. Statesman. vertising, says Joel Benton, is its puerility in name-making. He wants an "advertising philologist" or "arbiter of nom anclature."

The citizens of Los Angeles, Cal., have expended nearly $350,000 within the past ten years in advertising, exhibitions, etc., for the purpose of at-'Here's an advertisement about a tracting settlers and otherwise advertising their city. It might be pertin to add that Los Angeles showed the largest percentage of gain in population during those ten years of any city

> Hundreds of novel advertising schemes that are hatched every day are so evenly meritless that it is almost safe to apply Punch's advice to all of them, "Don't!" Some one tries them all, however, and vast sums of money are sunk in them. There are doubtless cases where they pay, but it would not be hard to show that legitimate advertising would have paid better. The great public holds its open court daily in the newspaper and will hear what any man has to say in behalf of his business provided he can say it well .--

The Philadelphia Record tells an interesting story about the success of the largest general store in Tacoma, Wash. The proprietors began business in a small way, lived economically and saved every dollar to buy space in the newspapers. Now their advertising contracts call for an aggregate space of 107 pages a year. The manager of the concern says they would as soon think of going out of business as of reducing their advertising space. The experiment of that firm is the common experience of all extensive advertisers. A man might as well take down his business signs as to stop advertising, as might a firm.

Stopped for Once.

A citizen from the frontier, who never had been in Washington before, was visiting a friend in the nation's capital, and was taken one day to the gallery of the Senate while an important measure was under discussion.

A senator was delivering a long, prosy and apparently almless speech. and the visitor soon grew tired of it. "Why doesn't he say somethin' worth listening to?" he whispered to his friend. "Oh, he's merely talking against time." "What's the good of that?" asked the other, aghast. "Time goes on just the same, doesn't it?"

"I suppose it does," replied his friend, looking at his watch and yawning; "but it doesn't seem to."

A man can't be said to be thoroughly domestic in his tastes unless he can get an article out of the refrigerator without spilling something.

Only Natural.

It was several days after the prize fight and the pugilist with two broken ribs was sitting up and smoking a strong cigar, when the dector came in. "Well, how are you feeling now?" asked the latter.
