The Remarkable Experience of a Prominent Statesman-Congressman Meekison Gives Pe-ru-na a High Endorsement.

Congressman Meckison, of Ohio. Hon. David Meekisan is well known not only in his own state, but throughout America. He was elected to the Fifty-fith congress by a very large majority, and is the acknowledged leader of his party in his section of the state. Only one flaw marred the otherwise complete success of this rising statesman. Catarrh with its insidious approach and tenacious grasp, was his only unconquered foe. For 30 years he waged unsuccessful warfare against by advertising dentists are well illus- this personal enemy. At last Peruna came to the rescue. He writes:

Rheumatism often becomes chronic, and the mus-with outside applications or doctoring the skin.

Louisville, Ky., March 27, '02.

Gentlemen: I am glad to say that S. S. S. has cured me of Rheumatism.

About two years ago I suffered from Rheumatism in my knees and feet, my ankles swelling so that I could not put on my shees. This continued for several months, during which but derived no benefit. I was told of S. S. S. and tried it. I immediately got relief, and continued the time I was applying liniments and going by my physician's directions.

Here is a beautiful and simple experiment. Take an ordinary square wooden ruler and cut off a piece about 30 inches in length.

Next take a thin piece of wire, which must be somewhat longer than the longer portion of the ruler, and twist each of its two ends into a little ring. After this is done nall the riugs to the two ends of the larger portion of the ruler and then place the smaller portion under the wire in the same position that a string of a violin is placed on a bridge.

Now, if you strike the wire it will give forth a sound, and this sound will change according to the pressure of Next cut, out of cork, a few little figures. They must resemble dancers, and you can make them more picturesque by giving them a cont of oil paint. Moreover, under each there must be three supports, which are to be stuck into the cork, and can be made out of little bits of wire, These miniature dancers are to be placed on a tin floor (the top or bottom of any common tin box will suffice for this purpose), the edge of which is to be nailed to the upright portion of the ruler in the manner shown in the accompanying picture.

The dancers are now to be dipped in soap and water and the tin floor is to be moistened with the same fluid, Immediately afterward the figures should be placed in position on the floor and a large soap bubble should then be blown over them, and in such a manner that it will rest on the floor.

As a result we have as beautiful a ballroom as one could wish to see. Moreover, we can have music and dancing, for if we strike the wire the vibrations will act on the tin floor of the ballroom and the tiny figures will begin to dance enthusiastically and will continue to dance as long as we furnish them with music.

WALK ON STILTS.

A Picturesque Method of Locomotion in Southwestern France.

In southwestern France there is a department known as Landes, bordering on the Bay of Biscay, which is among the most desolate and unproductive regions in Europe. It has an area of nearly 4,000 square miles and a population exceeding 300,000. While the eastern portion of this department is fertile enough to permit of successful agriculthey have whipping posts in some ture, the western portion consists only of desolate tracts of sand banks, marshes and swamps, covered with heath and dwarf shrubs. The inhabitants live in scattered villages of miserable huts and subsist by fishing and hunting and the raising of swine and The latter are of a wretched breed, thus partaking of the nature of their country.

The chief peculiarity of the inhabitants is that they walk on stilts, the use of the latter greatly aiding locomotion on the arid lands and sait marshy plains. Illustrative of this method of locomotion we print a picture from the Illustrated London News showing the peasants on the way to market. The inhabitants are chiefly of the Gascon race, and while rude and naturally poor they are good-natured and hospitable.

Fresh Corn.

Would you like to know, in the middle of the winter, what fresh corn is like? If you would, get a can of Monopole Corn, and, if it were not for the season, you would probably not know the difference. Monopole Corn is canned where it is grown, only the best and tenderest ears being used. It retains the natural freshness and flavor of the vegetable, and you won't find it half so good if you ask for any other brand. Your grocer doubtless handles Monopole groceries and can furnish you with them. If he will not, write us direct and we will advise you of one who will. Wadhams & Kerr Bros., packers, Portland, Ore.
