Rotary auction promises 'Roaring Good Time'

Saturday, March 14, will be "A Roaring Good Time for Giving," according to local Rotarians.

To the lively sounds of a little ragtime piano, the Rotary Club of Florence unveiled its 2015 auction theme last week, declaring that its upcoming Roaring Twenties extravaganza will set another fundraising record to support scholarships for local young people. The auction is scheduled for 5 p.m., March 14, at the Florence Events Center.

Expect to see a bit of Great Gatsby combined with some Downton Abbey as Rotarians dress the part. Some may even be seen dancing the Charleston or sipping a little speakeasy champagne. A capacity crowd of 260 is expected, according to auction co-chairwoman Bobbi Brubaker.

More than half the tables are already sold out. Anyone interested in sponsoring a table at this year's event should call Kim Erickson at 541-902-9807 for tickets and information.

In 2014, the Florence Rotary contributed more than $45,000 in scholarships for students at Siuslaw and Mapleton high schools and Lane Community College. Scholarships range from $1,000 to $10,000 and support students in both community college and university degree programs.

"We have already raised more than $1 million through our auction program," said cochairman Kevin McMullen. "We're headed for our second million, and we continue to be excited about the academic and professional accomplishments of our past scholarship win-

In addition to its ambitious scholarship program, Rotary sponsors the Siuslaw High School Interact Club, Rotary's service organization for high school students. Other projects during the past year included backpacks, dictionaries and school supplies for Siuslaw and Mapleton elementary schools. "This year's theme is our way of having fun and doing good at the same time," said Rotary President Sadie Ward. "Florence Rotarians are fabulous and this night will be no exception."
