

ALL MUSIC — ALL DAY LONG

The music goes on all day at the 2015 Winter Folk Festival, on stage at the Florence Events Center, and there's something to please every musical taste. From bluegrass to Western to down-home folk tunes, it's all here for the listening.

In addition to their daytime concerts at the events center, artists will perform at various venues in the area throughout the weekend, beginning Friday. (See schedule on page 3.)

SATURDAY, JAN. 11

Larry Potts opens the show at 10:30 a.m. on Saturday. A Sonoma County, Calif., resident, Potts has won considerable acclaim by winning numerous songwriting competitions. As a seasoned performer he has delighted audiences with his easy, relaxed delivery and award-winning songs.

Sky in the Road takes over at noon. Daniel Rhiger and Rahmana Wiest write and perform songs in that magical place where heaven meets earth, the blend of ethereal and rhythmic, of eternal and temporal, where the Sky meets the Road. Sky in the Road combines bluegrass, pop, singer-songwriter folk, chant, world music touches, and simmering passion in all their music.

Mike and Carleen McCornack will be on stage at 2 p.m. After performing for more than 900 youth at the Kids Concerts on Thursday, the festival is pleased to welcome back the 2014 people's choice award winners, singer-songwriters Mike and Carleen McCornack from Eugene. They have been delighting audiences for over 30 years with an engaging musical style that blends clear, expressive, harmonious vocals with acoustic instrumental accompaniments.

The Sugar Beets close the daytime shows at 4 p.m. For more than 20 years, the eight-piece ensemble has been bring-
