New health, fitness studio opens Monday

A new health and fitness studio will open in Florence on Monday, Feb. 2.

StudioFlorence.com is at 1845 Highway 126, on the corner of Quince Street in the Park Place Plaza.

Students have the ability to sign-up, pay and schedule classes online through the studio's Facebook page.

There will be a variety of classes initially offered and the owners, Bill Fleenor and Tina Alto, are always receptive to every new idea for those who have alternative desires for classes with interested participants.

StudioFlorence.com is out-fitted for the maximal experience of whatever class one decides to take.

The fully modernized studio has two completely mirrored walls, a cushioned natural bamboo floor, a changing room, benches, 10-foot ceilings, intimate or bright lighting, state-of-the-art music system, certified and licensed instructors, plenty of lighted parking and a completely safe and non-competitive environment.

The classes will be plentiful and the instructors are knowledgeable, motivated and informed.

Zumba will be taught by the energetic and enthusiastic Dori Wolf.

"You can't help but smile while exercising with her," said Fleenor.

Angela Palmer will be instructing her well-known ballet classes there as well.

Eileen Angilletta is producing her fun and exciting Bollywood, belly dancing and Pilates.

Alison Byrd will offer a warm and dedicated yoga class, with stretching and cool down.

Bill Fleenor will teach and demonstrate his version of the Hot Yoga series, learned from multiple trips to Thailand.

"Health and happiness are the goals for students," said Fleenor. "We are here to help attain them."

Everyone is welcome. For more information, visit www.StudioFlorence.com or call 541-902-3082.

WORD ON THE STREET

What are your plans for the Super Bowl?

"Getting together with a bunch of friends and watching the game. I'm from Seattle. I went to the first Seahawks game ever, so I've got to root for the Seahawks."
—JAMES SANGREY, 66 FLORENCE

"The family is coming over for a barbecue. I'm a Seahawks fan."
—DAVID ROSS, 58 FLORENCE

"We'll be watching it at home on our 75-inch HD television. It's better than being at the game. And we'll be rooting for the Seahawks."
—CHRIS SORENSEN, 66 FLORENCE

"I plan on staying home and watching the game and barbecuing some ribs. I don't care who wins. I just want a good game."
—NADINE HIGHSMITH, 65 FLORENCE
