Grand opening at Fresenius Medical Care

2015 Vocational Rehabilitation international conference

"A number of the students actually told me that they had written papers on different chapters in my book. It was really fun to hear. I hadn't been quite expecting that," he said.

His two interpreters, Seon A, a master's degree candidate, and Soon Yang, a Ph.D. candidate, are both studying vocational rehabilitation in Seoul.

"They were very well-versed and had both done papers on my book. They asked me a lot of questions. ... They asked me to write down a sentence for them to remember to think about as they move forward in their careers. I was just really taken aback. It was quite nice that they asked me," he said.

He got the chance to experience South Korea in ways he never expected.

"The first night they had scheduled a special traditional Korean dinner with a whole bunch of the conference organizers ... in the old part of Seoul, down little narrow alleyways. I'd never be able to find it again in a million years. They brought out traditional Korean food, about 30 different dishes, and we were there for hours drinking rice wine. It was a great time," he said.

Besides eating Korean food, Wiegan also took the chance to sightsee. Seon A and Soon Yang accompanied him for three extra days as his guides and interpreters, even taking him past the American Embassy within a day of the attack there.

"We toured for 12 hours a day and walked so many miles. I saw so many things I wouldn't be able to begin to find on my own," he said.

The size of the city was immense. With 24.5 million people, Seoul is the second largest metropolitan area in the

"It's like 24-1/2 Portlands," he said. "It just went on and on and on forever."

For someone who was apprehensive about the trip -Wiegan was worried about the length of the flight as he "doesn't fit into airplane seats well"

he had a great time. "It's a fascinating place. I think overall I've never been treated so warmly and welcoming in my life. Everyone there was so pleasant and welcoming and the hospitality was just completely awesome. They went out of their way to be nice at every opportunity," he said.

"It just exceeded expectations. I could not have imagined how well it would go."

Meet WILLOW

Hello there! My name is Willow. I'm a sweet girl but I can be a little bit timid and quiet at first. I like people and I'm pretty easy going around other kitties too so I would make a great companion in a multipul cat home! Or if you are thinking of getting two kitties, I would like to mention my best friend Wednesday! My shelter offers a better with a buddy deal!

If you would like to meet Willow or any of her friends, please visit us at:
