Sophomore Destiny Weber was one-tenth of a second behind for fourth place (15.27), and senior Jade Roby was fifth (16.71).

In the throws, sophomore Josi Hays placed second in the shot put (26-04), with Dearman landing third (26-03) and Jewel Roby in fifth (22-08.5). Hays went on to land third in the discus (58-07).

Frelich threw for 92-08 in the javelin for second place, with Dearman in fourth place (71-11) and Jade Roby in fifth (40-05).

Rodet provided the team’s only individual win with a leap of 5-6 in the pole vault.

In the long jump, Frelich had the team’s highest mark at 12-06.25 for third place.

Mapleton was first overall in team scoring, followed by Triangle Lake, Alsea and Lowell.

Senior Jacob Pruett had a standout day in the throws, winning three events for Mapleton, beginning with the shot put (39-06.5). Pruett also won the discus (102-10) and javelin (136-11).

For my group of friends, the afternoons were filled with wrestling. Jimmy “Superfly” Snuka, Andre the Giant, Sgt. Slaughter and the pesky Iron Sheik became staples of our enjoyment. At night the WWF gave way to another league: The Big East.

That little brown box and that fledgling sports network (third button from the left on the second row) changed everything.

All of those phony wrestling story lines were replaced by an even more colorful cast of the most implausible group you can imagine — a bunch of kids and the coaches that loved them shooting hoops for the Tri-State area’s local Catholic colleges, colleges that most of the nation west of I-95 had never heard of.

What’s a Hoya?

Which exit for Seton Hall?

You play games at Rhode Island?

What’s with that guy’s sweater?

Let’s stop there for a moment. The guy wearing the sweater was Lou Carnesecca. He was the coach of St. Johns.

His shooting guard was Chris Mullin, and the kid was lights out. He’s the guy who’s going to be recruiting you, the guy who’s going to be coaching you, and dealing with the boosters and the press.

Real quick, here’s his resume:

Education: McDonald’s High School All-American, three-time Big East player of the year, three-time All-American and winner of both the Oscar Robertson and John Wooden Awards, which is basically the basketball Heisman.

Professional experience: Five-time NBA All-Star, averaged 20 points per game, GM of the Golden State Warriors, VP of the Sacramento Kings.

Volunteer work: Two-time Olympic Gold Medal winner, original member of the 1996 “Dream Team.”

Awards: Yeah. He’s in the Hall of Fame. All of them.

To the detractors, let’s reason this out. The kids may not know who he is, but the parents sure do, and he knows the academic part of the equation because he’s already done that ... he went there.

Boosters?

You’re welcome.

All that’s left for Mullin is our anticipation of what’s on next.

Mapleton senior Katie Dearman gets the baton from senior Madison Frelich in the 4x100-meter relay.

Chris Free, also a senior, landed a pair of wins for Mapleton, landing first in the triple jump (38-02) and running the 800-meter in 2:20.73 for the win. Free was also second in the long jump (18-01).

Mapleton sophomore Hunter Simington won the pole vault with a mark of 9-0, with teammate and follow sophomore Eli Peterson clearing 8-0 for second place. In the 200 meters, Simington finished second (24.59), with sophomore AJ Foster about a second behind for third place (25.96).

Free, Peterson, Simington and Foster teamed up for the 4x100-meter relay and finished second with a time of 47.90.

Other scoring for the boys team included: freshman Cole Spencer, who was third in the 800 meters (2:40.68) and high jump (4-10); Tucker Ford, with second place in the high jump (5-4), fourth place in the javelin (98-0) and fifth in the triple jump (32-07.5); junior Trevver D’Auteuil, who was fourth in the discus (76-08), seventh in the shot put (32-01.5) and eighth in the 200-meter race (29.15); sophomore Tyler Packebush, with fourth place in the 300-meter hurdles (50.99) and seventh in the long jump (14-11); and freshman Dominic Wells, who was fourth in the high jump (4-8), seventh in the 200 meters (28.44) and ninth in the javelin (76-03).

Despite the effort, Mapleton finished second (165.5) to Triangle Lake (196). Lowell was third overall (73.5) and Alsea was fourth (61).

Meet GAGE

Gage is a great all around guy. Gage would love to have a fenced yard to run around in and maybe a dog friend to play with too. Gage has some food and toy aggression issues that have developed from living in the kennels. He needs to go to a home that is willing to work with him on this.

If you would like to meet Gage or any of his friends, please visit us at:
