Aquarium to 'go green' for Earth Day April 25

NEWPORT — Oregon's window to the underwater world will go green on Saturday, April 25, when the Oregon Coast Aquarium celebrates Earth Day.

"We host this annual celebration to encourage the public to engage in positive behavior changes for the benefit of a healthier environment and lifestyle," said Beth Hawkyard, the aquarium's volunteer services manager, who organizes the event. "It is a wonderful feeling to know you are reducing your impact on our planet."

Exhibits will brim with eco-friendly educational opportunities for visitors. Guests will be able to practice identifying marine debris, learn about reusable products and contribute to a collaborative art piece called "Wave of Change."

Guests are also invited to take a guided walk on the wild side through the aquarium's natuescaped grounds that the National Wildlife Federation honored with a wildlife habitat certification. Anita Albrecht, the aquarium's head groundskeeper, will lead visitors during this native plant walk to explore this restored natural landscape.

Those interested in joining the 45 minute tour should meet outside the aquarium's lobby at 1 p.m.

Pre-registration is not required and all activities are included with general admission. The aquarium is open every day from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

For more information call 541-867-FISH or visit www.aquarium.org.

The Oregon Coast Aquarium organizes its Earth Day event in conjunction with the Association of Zoo and aquarium's (AZA) nationwide Party For the Planet event on April 22. Party For the Planet's collective events make the world's largest combined Earth Day Celebration.

For more information about AZA's Party For the Planet, visit www.aza.org.

Meet TUCKER

Hi! I'm Tucker and I'm very handsome in my tuxedo. I'm a bit of a shy guy, who prefers a quiet place to contemplate and reflect. If you spend some time and get to know me, you'll find me to be very cuddly and affectionate. I would love to spend my days curled up on someone's lap. Is your lap available?
