Before you purchase that home, is it safe?

Is your home or business structurally sound and safe from fire, wind or other natural disasters?

Before you purchased or sold your property did you visit Florence City Hall to see if the structures were constructed to code? Protect your investment and the safety of others, ensure your property meets building safety and fire prevention codes.

May is Building Safety Month and the theme is Resilient Communities Start with Building Codes.

The goal of Building Safety Month is to raise public awareness of critical safety issues from structural to fire prevention, plumbing and mechanical systems, and energy efficiency.

The City of Florence is a Building Safety Month supporter and continues to work with the community to ensure public safety.

All Florence property owners are encouraged to participate and learn about the essential building safety work of the City of Florence. Educational materials are available for families, businesses, schools and the community at large including children's activity books; and brochures about mold prevention, disaster preparedness, green building and flood cleanup.

Among the 57,000 members of the International Code Council that created Building Safety Month are code officials, plan reviewers, fire inspectors, architects, builders, engineers, contractors and others in the construction industry, including staffers in the City of Florence who work to ensure the safety of the buildings where we live, work, learn, worship and play.

For more information, call Eric Rines from the City of Florence Building Department at 541-997-2141 to find out if your building was constructed to code or to see if your project requires a permit for work.

Building safety impacts everyone.
