

Record from 1A

He did note the positives to a cloudy evening.

"The flipside is, we had excellent weather at the airport for the fly-in and car show because we didn't have any wind for a change. That made it a lot more pleasant and do-able, especially for the airplanes," he said.

According to a spokesman for the annual Wings and Wheels show at the Florence Municipal Airport on Saturday, the event had record attendance, both from spectators and cars entered.

More than 100 vehicles were on display and many won trophies for various categories.

Mike Groshong, spokesman for Wings and Wheels, estimated that the attendance was close to 2,000, or about 33 percent more than last year's estimated 1,500 visitors.

Next door, the OCMM also had a large crowd.

"It was literally elbow-to-elbow room. I wouldn't be surprised if there were people at least in the high hundreds, if not 1,000 people," Applebee said.

Florence Mayor Joe Henry estimated that he and other OCMM board members served almost 1,000 helpings of free burgers, hot dogs and pulled pork during the grand opening ceremony that lasted until 4 p.m.

One way that Florence helped with parking for Wings and Wheels and the museum's celebration was by working with the Rhody Express to provide a free shuttle service to three locations.

According to Applebee, several hundred people used the Rhody Express throughout the day.

"This is the first time that the city and Rhody Express came up with that idea.

They've received grants to do some free shuttle services, and they decided that the Fourth of July celebration would be a good place to try that," he said. "It worked out great."

The other way that Florence helped with parking was by securing a lease to use the parking lot at the old Lotus Restaurant on Bay Street.

"The extra parking was a godsend. I understand it was packed all the time, so that helped the parking in Old Town," Applebee said.

The Old Town celebration included pie and watermelon-eating contests, a historic flag display, people in period costumes and the full Boardwalk Market before the fireworks show in the evening.

"Old Town was packed and it was hopping," Applebee said. "It was just a great weekend. A lot of energy, a lot of action."

He estimates that the area's population doubled over the weekend with campers, overnight stays, people passing through and those who come out annually for Florence's celebration.

"All that was going on in Old Town at the same time we were having record crowds out at the airport and at the museum. Florence was just jam-packed on the Fourth of July," Applebee said.

GIVING BACK

VOLUNTEER SPOTLIGHT

BONNIE MACDUFFEE
Florence Food Share

Bonnie MacDuffee has selflessly contributed over 15,000 hours of volunteer service over the past 14 years. Since 2001, Bonnie has been an integral part of Food Share's success. She has helped out in a myriad of ways, including:

1. Management and coordination of all fund raisers
2. As a volunteer board member, she analyzes and reports on the financial strengths and challenges this pantry faces.
3. Bonnie assists our clients from the pantry every Wednesday afternoon from 4-6p.m.
4. Bonnie has and continues to volunteer in other various capacities around town, so it is almost unreal that she is able to fit in so many hours with Food Share's responsibilities.

We won't tell you her age, but Bonnie has the energy of a 20 year old and the "chutzpah" of a trained salesman when it comes to recruiting sponsorships for our fund raisers. Florence Food Share would not be as successful as it is without the years of support and hard work from Bonnie MacDuffee.

Museum from 1A

OCMM Board President Tim Sapp thanked all those who had donated time and money for the building of the museum.

Representatives of the offices of U.S. Sen. Ron Wyden and U.S. Rep. Peter DeFazio brought their greetings and congratulations, including a flag that had flown over the White House.

The Grand Opening was enjoyed by nearly 800 people, who viewed the new life-sized dioramas, the display cases, the temporary displays of firearms and sailor canvas hammocks.

The gift shop did huge business, which brought in more money for the museum's many ongoing projects.

The overall mood was one of amazement and appreciation for this huge effort on the behalf of military veterans.
