American storyteller continues KXCR Folk Series

Again this summer, Florence will have the opportunity to hear and visit with performers from the Oregon Country Fair.

Unique American storyteller Chris Chandler is playing with Paul Benoit Saturday, July 18, at 7 p.m., at the Florence Unitarian Universalist Fellowship.

His performance is third in a series, coming on the heels of shows by two former musical partners, Anne Feeney and her daughter, Amy Sue Berlin.

Behind Chandler's free thought riffs on American culture is a sharp eye and a deep love of language.

Striking in appearance, sporting a black bowler on his shaved head, he sometime finds himself climbing any nearby chair to add emphasis to a story's hilarious conclusion.

Chandler, son of a southern preacher, left his home and, instead of pursuing a career in theater, he trusted his instincts to hit the road to find and tell the stories of America.

For the past 25 years he has traveled from gig to gig losing his long blond hair but sharpening his craft.

The guitar and voice of Benoit weaves tastefully throughout the performance, sometimes subdued, sometimes soaring.

Chandler credits his music director for lifting the act to its current elevated level of professionalism.

Everywhere they appear the reaction usually includes a recognition that it was a totally unique entertainment experience.

There is no admission charge but donations will be gratefully received by the performers.
