THE FLYSPECK FLYER

GOOD BUGS

By Nellie Fly
WORLD'S SMALLEST REPORTER

Nature needs insects. All bugs are part of the ecological balance. When people grow plants for food or decoration, insects often eat these plants, and that leads people to think of insects as pests. But, not all bugs are pests. Some help gardeners and farmers. When they do that, people call them "beneficial insects."

Bugs That Eat Bugs

Ladybugs love aphids. Aphids are among the most common plant pests.

Aphids damage plants by feeding on them and by carrying diseases from plant to plant. One farmer's field can host millions of aphids.

Draw the other half of this ladybug.

Ladybugs sometimes roll over and play dead if they are disturbed. Many predators will not eat an insect that doesn't move. Find the ladybug that is different.

Praying Mantis

The praying mantis is the only known insect that can turn its head and look over its shoulder. It waits for an insect to stray close, and then snaps it up with a lightning grab of its strong forelegs. It can move twice as fast as a housefly.

When young, praying mantises eat aphids, leafhoppers, mosquitoes, caterpillars and other soft-bodied insects. Later they eat larger insects, beetles, grasshoppers, crickets and other pest insects.

Pirate Bugs

These pirates are good guys. They don't hurt plants, people or pets. They don't eat grain. They eat insects that eat grain. Farmers put them into grain bins to eat the insect pests. Then they are easily removed before the grain is used.

How many pirate bugs can you find on this page?

Keep Your Toothbrush Clean

Keep your toothbrush out in the open. Do not routinely cover toothbrushes or store them in closed containers. A moist environment, such as a closed container, is more conducive to the growth of microorganisms than the open air.
