Campfire ban lifted in Siuslaw National Forest

CORVALLIS — Siuslaw National Forest officials announced campfires are again permissible in all its campgrounds. Visitors also can use charcoal grills in campgrounds and day-use areas. Cooler temperatures and a recent string of rainfall have created conditions where Siuslaw fire officials say they are comfortable lifting the restrictions. Visitors, however, still are advised to use caution while enjoying their natural spaces: 1. Keep campfires small and in an area that has been cleared down to mineral soil 2. Only burn materials that fit within a designated campfire ring

3. Never leave a campfire unattended 4. Extinguish all campfires before leaving — even if you will only be away for a short time Report all fires or suspected wildfire activity to the Coastal Valley Interagency Dispatch Center at 541-750-7024 or call 911.
