DC's Legends of Tomorrow
Thursday at 8 p.m. on KWBP

After a warm-up from its characters appearing on "The Flash" and "Arrow," DC Comics' television universe grows again with the premiere of this adventure series. Such heroes as The Atom (played by Brandon Routh) and Hawkman (Falk Hentschel) are featured as time traveler Rip Hunter (Arthur Darvill) organizes them to combat Vandal Savage's (Casper Crump) threat to mankind. Victor Garber, Dominic Purcell and Wentworth Miller also star in "Pilot, Part 1."

Lucifer
Monday at 9 p.m. on KLSR

The devil typically is considered an enemy, but this new, comic-book-based series puts him on the side of the good guys. The "Pilot" introduces Tom Ellis ("Rush") as the charismatic demon who now runs a Los Angeles nightclub, aiming to see justice for evildoers instead of cheering them on. "Chicago Fire" alum Lauren German plays a police detective, and DB Woodside also stars. Filmmaker Len Wiseman ("Underworld") is an executive producer here.

Outsiders
Tuesday at 7 p.m., 8 p.m., 9 p.m. on WGN-A

Playwright and novelist Peter Mattei ("The Deep Whatsis") created this gritty new drama series in association with Peter Tolan ("Rescue Me") and actor Paul Giamatti, about an insular renegade family living off the grid atop rugged Shay Mountain in Kentucky. From that perch, the close-knit Farrell clan defends its way of life from the townspeople below or any outside challengers. David Morse, Ryan Hurst and Thomas M. Wright ("The Bridge") head the ensemble cast.
