Archie Knowles Campground restoration begins

PHOTOS BY JACK DAVIS/SIUSLAW NEWS

More than 50 supporters braved the rainy weather Tuesday to witness the groundbreaking ceremony for the rehabilitation of the Archie Knowles Campground on Highway 126, east of Mapleton. The actual work began minutes after the ceremony concluded. Lane County plans to open the campground under county management on Memorial Day weekend. Clockwise from top left: Federal, county and local representatives help turn the first shovelfull of dirt after the presentation ceremony. Kids play in the rain near Knowles Creek before the ceremony. Equipment stands ready to begin the real work. West Lane County Commissioner Jay Bozievich addresses the audience during the ceremony.

R and R King recognized by Department of Forestry

On March 9, the Oregon Department of Forestry will recognize the 2015 Operators of the Year for responsible, innovative, proactive work that protects natural resources. Among the winners is R&R King Logging Inc. of Florence.

To encourage this work, the Board of Forestry annually recognizes people and entities that consistently meet or exceed the Forest Practices Act requirements to: replant forests; harvest responsibly; reduce landslide risks to improve public safety; protect stream buffers; build and maintain roads to protect streams; preserve and protect water quality; and protect and enhance wildlife and fish habitat.

Regional Forest Practices Committees select the Operators of the Year and Merit Award recipients.

Acting Private Forests Division Chief Lena Tucker said, "These are the best of the many operators who regularly perform above what the law requires to protect natural resources. We're pleased to honor this exemplary work."

R&R King Logging earned the Southern Oregon Area Operator of the Year award for protecting the streamside buffer along Little Paradise Creek, a large fish-bearing stream with salmon, steelhead and trout. The creek runs south, bisecting the harvest unit.

R&R King needed to move the logs from the creek's east side to the west for processing.

The team used a suspended cable system to move the logs along 1,500- to 4,000-foot spans over the creek to protect its buffer trees.

R&R King went above and beyond the Forest Practices Act minimum requirements to better protect natural resources at the expense of lost production.

All nominees exceeded the Forest Practices requirements to help improve Oregon's forests.

The Associated Oregon Loggers, the Oregon Logging Conference and the Oregon Small Woodland Association will also provide special recognition.

In 1971, Oregon enacted the Forest Practices Act, the nation's model forest management laws which focuses on forest operations and protecting natural resources.

Many states followed Oregon's lead.

The Act remains current through updates based on science, facts and values to create a balanced approach to natural resource management.

BE MINDFUL OF BLACK ICE
It might look like a puddle, but it isn't. It's ice. And it can cause you to lose control. Remember that if a road looks slick, there's a good chance it is. Maintain a slow speed and test any possible black ice patches by turning your wheels slightly or lightly applying the brakes.
