Social studies, science fair at Sonshine Christian

Sonshine Christian School invites the public to a science and social studies fair on Tuesday, Feb. 9, from 6 to 7:30 p.m.

Students will exhibit their dedicated displays to Abraham Lincoln, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Susan B. Anthony, and Patrick Henry; recite portions of well-known speeches, and answer questions about their experience at Florence's only Christian elementary school.

"Our school board president, Nathan Large, came in and did some pretty cool electrical projects with the students," said principal

Karen Nelson. "They wired a door bell, a horn, blinking lights, a rotating beacon and a fan, all of which will be on display."

Nelson and school board members will also be on hand to answer questions about what the kids learn, how they interact in a multi-grade classroom, field trips, community service projects, and how much it costs.

Refreshments will be provided.

Sonshine Christian School is at 4445 Highway 101, at the Florence Seventh-day Adventist Church, next to Potter's Tire and Automotive.

8TH GRADERS EXPERIENCE ELLIS ISLAND

T iuslaw Middle School (SMS) eighth graders symbolized the "tired, poor, huddled masses" as they re-enacted the Ellis Island immigrant experience Monday, Feb. 1, in the middle school commons. Students went through processing, testing and evaluation before eventually being cleared and allowed to take an oath of loyalty to the United States of America. Earlier in the day, Rachel Atkins, top left, presented her one-woman play, "The New American," to the students during three performances. SEAcoast Entertainment Association sponsored the Living Voices presentation.

Siuslaw Coho Partnership awarded large grant

The Oregon Watershed Enhancement Board (OWEB) awarded $86,020 to the Siuslaw Coho Partnership at the Jan. 26-27 board meeting.

The award was one of eight grants totaling $937,369 provided to local organizations statewide to support fish and wildlife habitat and water quality programs that seek to develop plans and partnerships that improvements for native fish and wildlife.

"The members of the Siuslaw Coho Partnership have a successful history of bringing together local partners, landowners and agencies to plan and implement restoration projects in the Siuslaw and Coastal Lakes watersheds," said Dan Carpenter, Siuslaw Watershed Council executive director. "We are excited to be able to apply this experience to the development of restoration plans for coho salmon populations in the Siuslaw and Coastal Lakes watersheds.

"Restoration projects such as these support the local econosupport landscape-scale habitat port strong coho populations."

The Siuslaw Coho Partnership is a collaboration between the Siuslaw Watershed Council, the Confederated Tribes of the Coos, Lower Umpqua, and Siuslaw Indians, the Siuslaw Soil and Water Conservation District, the Siuslaw National Forest, and the Eugene District BLM.

The Partnership will be developing restoration plans that will lead to on-the-ground projects that increase the quality and quantity of key coho salmon spawning and rearing habitat in the Siuslaw and Coastal Lakes watersheds.
