Alonzo Bodden:
Historically Incorrect

Friday at 9 p.m. on SHO
The stand-up comic, podcaster and frequent panelist on the radio show "Wait Wait ... Don't Tell Me" returns with another meditation on the decline of western civilization, this time focusing on historical inaccuracies in both past and present. "My hope is that 100 years from now, they won't believe we were anti-healthcare, feared gay marriage and had the nation's largest news outlet claim cops shooting unarmed blacks was not a racial issue," Bodden recently posted on social media about his set.

Must See TV: An All-Star Tribute to James Burrows

Cast members of "Will & Grace" (of which Burrows directed every episode — nearly 200), "Cheers," "Taxi," "Friends," "Two and a Half Men," "Mike & Molly" and "The Big Bang Theory" offer testimonials to his approach and success. Participants include Jennifer Aniston, Megan Mullally, David Schwimmer, Kaley Cuoco and Sean Hayes.

The X-Files
Monday at 8 p.m. on KLSR

The limited-run revival of the series ends with "My Struggle II," written and directed by the show's creator, Chris Carter. When a mass illness befalls America and sets off a nationwide panic, Scully (Gillian Anderson) becomes the key to solving the crisis. Mulder (David Duchovny) pursues the person he believes to be behind it, but someone both sleuths know eventually resurfaces as a major factor. Anabeth Gish reprises her role from the first series.
