Siuslaw Watershed Council to discuss salmon survival tonight

The Siuslaw Watershed Council will hold its next meeting Wednesday, March 30, in the Siuslaw Public Library's Bromley Room.

Doors at 6 p.m., with meetings lasting from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

Dr. Rebecca Flitcroft will give a presentation titled: "Survival in times of change:

climate and salmon of the Oregon Coast Range."

Flitcroft is a research fish biologist with the USDA Forest Service at the Pacific Northwest Research Station in Corvallis.

Native aquatic species are adapted to survive in the range of environmental conditions present in their natural habitats.

This adaptation reflects past survival and reproduction by members of the population.

In the Pacific Northwest, few species have such diverse behaviors as salmonids. This reflects the complexity of their genetic lineage and allows them to survive in remarkably variable and dynamic stream conditions.

One question scientists are asking is how well salmonids will survive under future climates that may affect their habitats, from small headwater streams to salty tidal channels.

In this talk, Flitcroft will discuss the development and adaptation of Pacific salmon to Northwest stream environments, and some of the changes we may expect to see in the future.

Flitcroft's research focuses on aquatic systems from the headwaters to the ocean. She uses both statistical and physical representations of stream networks and estuaries in analysis and monitoring to more realistically represent system complexity and connecti-ty for aquatic species.

In her work, Flitcroft has collaborated with federal, state, private and nonprofit organizations.

John Spangler, a Fisheries Biologist with the ODFW field office in Newport, will present on the results of the winter spawning surveys, focusing on coho salmon.

PUBLIC INPUT SOUGHT ON FOREST PROJECTS TOMORROW

CORVALLIS — The Siuslaw National Forest is soliciting project proposals to be funded under Title II of the Secure Rural Schools and Community Self-Determination Act.

Individuals, nonprofit organizations, local governments and others are encouraged to propose projects that restore watersheds, decommission or maintain roads, control noxious weeds, or otherwise improve the condition of the Forest.

Proposed projects need not be implemented on Forest Service lands, but must show a benefit to national forest resources.

Project proposals are due electronically by 5 p.m. Thursday, March 31. Projects will be reviewed and funding recommendations made by the forest's Resource Advisory Committee in June, with funds most likely becoming available to groups by the fall.

Application forms, instructions and submission guidelines can be found online at www.l.usa.gov/1QFsk4y.

The Siuslaw RAC is a balanced and diverse group of stakeholders representing local communities, industry, recreational interests, environmental groups, elected officials and more.

The Siuslaw National Forest is accepting applications for future RAC members.

"The Resource Advisory Committee is a crucial part of the process of funding projects under the Secure Rural Schools Act," said Jerry Ingersoll, Siuslaw Forest Supervisor. "We recruit continuously for energetic and interested people who represent the diversity of our state and community.

"Please let us know if you are interested in serving."

More information about the Secure Rural Schools Act can be found at www.fs.usda.gov/main/pts/home.

Sheriffs offer safety tips as boating season approaches

Summer will be here before we know it and, along with it, boating season. Here are suggestions which can contribute to your safety and add to your boating pleasure.

• Know the legal requirements for your size vessel. Safety equipment must be accessible and in working condition.

• Wear your life jackets!! 85 percent of the boating fatalities could be avoided by wearing a personal floatation device. Remember it won't save your life if you don't wear it.

• Have children and non-swimmers wear a personal floatation device. Each device should be of suitable size for the intended wearer and fit securely. 90 percent of those who die in boating accidents drown.

• Be prepared and carry extra equipment such as a bailer (bucket), anchor, first aid kit, visual distress signal, tool kit, flashlight and extra batteries, and a cell phone.

• Don't over load your boat. Follow the recommendations on the capacity plate of your boat.

• Capsizing, sinking and falling overboard account for 70 percent of boating fatalities.

• If your boat should capsize, your best chance for survival and rescue is to stay with the boat. Pull as much of your body out of the water as possible to preserve body warmth.

• Hypothermia can be a killer, keep your body dry and warm as possible

• It is illegal to operate any boat while under the influence of alcohol or other drugs. Use the designated driver concept, a sober skipper is a must.

• Stressors such as exposure to sun, wind, cold water, vibration, noise and alcohol all affect your ability to react.

• Don't run out of fuel. Practice the 1/3 rule: 1/3 for trip, 1/3 for return and 1/3 for spare.

• Fuel vapors are heavier than air and collect in the bilge. Never fill gasoline cans in the boat.

• File a float plan. Let someone know where you're boating and when you'll be back.

• As of January 2009, all persons operating a motor boat greater than 10 horsepower are required to carry a Boater Education Card.

...need a friend?

Meet Rudy

"Hi! My name is Rudy and I'm so ready to be your best friend! I've been at the shelter for about a month now and I just can't wait to find my forever people. I want to give you all my love and entertain you with my peppy personality. We can go on walks, play fetch in the yard or just cuddle up on the couch together. As long as I'm with you I will be a happy boy!"

If you would like to meet Rudy any of his friends, please visit us at:
