Breathe Easier While Driving During Allergy Season

(NAPSA)-Just as it's hard to run a race if you can't breathe, a vehicle's dirty cabin air filter can negatively affect air quality and passenger comfort.
While about 30 million vehicles in service today have at least one cabin air filter, many drivers still aren't aware they exist, much less understand their benefits.
What You Need To Know
A good-quality cabin air filter helps reduce or block odor-causing contaminants as well as pollen, dust, pollutants in vehicle emissions, and even insects and leaves from the vehicle's interior.
Cabin air filters work by filtering the outside air coming into your vehicle.
They're usually located under your vehicle's dashboard or attached to the glove box.
Others may be located in the engine compartment.
Chances are good that your vehicle has one or more cabin air filters.
Filter Facts
Here are some things to consider when purchasing one:
• Your owner's manual will recommend when the filter needs changing but if you live on a dirt road or in a high-pollen area or are highly allergic, you may need to replace it more frequently.
"You wouldn't believe what's in some of the cabin air filters our PSCs [professional service centers] pull from customers' cars," said Tom Gundry, a product specialist with ACDelco. "Vehicle owners need to treat cabin air filters as they would their own furnace filter. If their furnace filter looked as bad as some of the cabin air filters, they would not hesitate a moment to replace it." • All filters are not created equal. For example, cabin air filters from ACDelco, which this year celebrates a century of aftermarket parts expertise, feature layered construction to capture both large and very small particles, and for strength.

• Depending on the vehicle, some filters are easier to remove and replace than others. Service centers have the right experience and tools for the job, but if you do it yourself, follow the directions to ensure you don't damage hardware.
• While cabin air filters are great at removing pollen in spring and summer, they're also effective in cold weather, when vehicle tail-pipe emissions are higher.

Tips And Tools To Make Chores Easier

(NAPSA)-Whether your
"to-do" list is getting you down or gearing you up for do-it-yourself fun, you want to be sure you have the right equipment to minimize the time, money and elbow grease you have to expend.
Therefore, you should look for products that can help make lawn care, gardening, home improvement and other DIY projects easier to accomplish. For example, instead of laboring to push an aerator around your lawn, consider a liquid dethatcher. You apply the dethatcher using a sprayer on the end of the garden hose and the formula works to aerate soil and break up the layer of thatch that hinders grass growth.
Renting tools or equipment you use occasionally can save you time and money. Many home improvement stores now offer a wide range of tools for rent, from bench saws and floor sanders to augers and overseeders. By renting, you avoid storage issues and maintenance chores.
One piece of equipment a DIYer can use all year round is an off-road vehicle.
By having it for heavy jobs, you can avoid the expense of hiring additional workers for projects such as:
• Removing dead branches and towing out bushes and trees. With a winch on the front of the vehicle or a tow strap at the rear, you can pull out old brush more easily.
• Smoothing out fresh dirt with a plow. Raking by hand is messy and takes a lot of time. Instead, hook up a plow to your off-road vehicle and gently smooth out the dirt. If the dirt is already level, attach a pull-behind rake to the vehicle to get set for planting or seeding.
• Carting lumber. You take fewer trips and save yourself from muscle aches and splinters. You can also reduce the number of helpers you need for the project.
• If you have a boat dock, use your off-road vehicle to tow it into the water.
• Hauling rocks or mulch around. You may be able to get more done with a versatile Polaris RANGER side-by-side. These have a rear dump box so you can move and distribute materials in different garden beds or around all your trees.
• Now for the best part: After all the hard work, take your vehicle out on the trail for a bit of fun. The two-passenger RANGER side-by-sides fit into the bed of most full-sized pickups, making it easy for you and a companion to take a break from the work and hit the trails.
