Emeralds hold full stable of pitching prospects

EUGENE — The Eugene Emeralds, which started their season last night at PK Park, look to limit runs this season with a variety of talented pitchers. The headlining act on the mound for the Ems 2016 season is second-year player, Dylan Cease, who is rated as the second-best pitching prospect in the Cubs organization.

Cease, who was drafted by the Cubs in the sixth round of the 2014 MLB June Amateur Draft behind former Ems Justin Steele and Carson Sands, pitched 24 innings last year in the Arizona League.

He limited opponents to 12 hits and seven earned runs, accumulating a 2.62 ERA and a WHIP of 1.167.

Cease was expected to be a first-round draft after a stellar career at Milton High School in Georgia. However, an injury to his ulnar collateral ligament during his senior year that required surgery caused Cease to fall to the sixth round.

Byran Hudson, a 6'8" lefty, had few chances to showcase his ability in games last season for the Arizona League Cubs. The southpaw had a 2.70 ERA and a WHIP of 1.200 over six and two-thirds innings.

With his large frame, good fastball and devastating breaking ball, the 19-year old is set up for a great year on the mound for the Emeralds.

One of the more unlikely signings, Tommy Nance, turned heads while playing for the Windy City Thunderbolts in the Frontier League outside of Chicago. Nance caught the Cubs' attention with his large stature and ability to shut down opponents late in games.

Signed to a minor league contract, Nance will start his journey to "The Show" with the Emeralds.

The Eugene Emeralds are the short-season Class A team of the Chicago Cubs. In 2015, six of the top 30 Cubs prospects spent time in Eugene, including Ian Happ, Donnie Dewees and Eloy Jimenez.

With 61 years behind it, the Emeralds are the longest-tenured and only founding member remaining in the Northwest League.

Season tickets and mini-plans for the 2016 are on sale now.
