

Old Town Coffee displays Pinnock art

Cheryl Lynn Pinnock is showing her latest collection of a whimsical look at life with photo manipulation at Old Town Coffee Co. and Gallery through July.

Pinnock is a native Oregonian who, with her husband of 38 years, raised her family in Florence. She loves hiking and kayaking with her family and friends, which gives her that special connection with the art she creates. Her artistic direction is painting, photography, crafting or anything "artsy."

Her latest "steering" has been working with photos. This allows her the extra time she needs for volunteering.

Plant sale to benefit local school gardens

On Saturday, July 16, from 10 a.m. to noon at the south end of Siuslaw Elementary School, 2221 Oak St., there will be a plant sale to benefit the school's gardens.

This is the program's third growing season at the Siuslaw School Gardens. With the help of garden coordinator Lyza Houlihan, students have successfully harvested food from the gardens for students to eat in the cafeteria.

Houlihan has also established a composting system, where food waste from the cafeteria is being used to create food for the plants.

Kids involved with the Boys and Girls Club summer program and the summer school program have been caring for the garden this summer.

During the school year, many of the classes are involved in planting, weeding, harvesting and composting.

The garden provides students with the opportunity to develop a relationship with their food, from seed to table.

The Siuslaw School Garden is currently seeking to expand by purchasing a greenhouse for more year-round instruction and food production.

Anyone interested in volunteering or donating can contact Houlihan at harvestyourgarden@yahoo.com.

OCHS sells burgers, hot dogs Saturday

Hot dogs and hamburgers hot-off-the-grill will be available on Saturday, July 16, in the Grocery Outlet parking lot during the Power of Florence event.

This event, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m., raises money to help provide care for the once-homeless cats and dogs awaiting a home at the Oregon Coast Humane Society (OCHS).

This month's event includes the "Stuff The Van" fundraiser to accept donations of pet food for families who cannot afford to feed their companion animals.

Inside Grocery Outlet, adoptable cats with OCHS volunteers will be the main attraction. These volunteers also offer information about OCHS services.

Grocery Outlet owner Woody Woodbury sponsors this event.
