SNE, Job Corps trains new generation of wildland firefighters

CORVALLIS — Wildland firefighting season is getting into full swing and this year the Siuslaw National Forest has partnered with Angell Job Corps Civilian Conservation Center to train the next generation of firefighters. Starting Aug. 1, Angell's student firefighters will participate in S-212 — Wildland Fire Chainsaw, a class that will provide instruction on the safe use of chainsaws and their tactical wildland fire application.

Chainsaw training follows the required initial training, Firefighter Type 2, which the students recently completed.

At the completion of their training, 11 Angell Job Corps students will be certified to assist federal, state and local firefighters in Oregon and Washington to provide initial attack, fire-line construction and mop-up duties on wild-fires.

National forests and cooperators rely on the support from partners, like Job Corps, to manage incidents that would be difficult for a single national forest to support on its own.

Forest Service employees are providing training in wildland firefighting to Angell students, who are excited to learn this new skill.

"This is an excellent opportunity for our students to receive first-rate training as well as gain experience working with fire," said Jothan McGaughey, Angell Job Corps Assistant Fire

Management Officer. "Working hand-in-hand with instructors, they quickly learn how to apply their new skills while gaining valuable insights into wildland firefighting techniques."

"This is a great partnership and it gives Job Corps students another career path to pursue," said Dan Eddy, Fire Management Officer for Siuslaw National Forest. "Some of Angell's students have an interest in fire management and may want to pursue this career path because of the job experience we provide."

The students training at Job Corps Centers across the nation have diverse interests, but many are dedicated to some of the most vital work of the Forest Service through wildland firefighting.

Job Corps is a no-cost education and career technical training program administered by the U.S. Department of Labor that helps young people ages 16 through 24 improve the quality of their lives through career technical and academic training.

The Job Corps program is authorized by Title I-C of the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act of 2014 (supersedes WIA 1998).

Angell Job Corps Center, located on the Oregon Coast in Yachats, is overseen by the San Francisco Regional Office of Job Corps and is operated by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Forest Service.

- First aid and CPR classes
- We take care of all paperwork, claim forms, and insurance billing
- Prehospital, paramedic emergency medical treatment and ambulance transportation
- Paramedic rescue
- Critical care ambulance service
- Peace of mind knowing that the very best help is available to you by calling 911.

LifeMed Means Savings to You

Ambulance care is expensive to provide. Advanced Life Support costs from $1700 to $3200 per use. LifeMed picks up the cost of what your insurance does not pay.

Why do I need LifeMed if I have insurance?

Insurance does not always cover the total fee for ambulance service. LifeMed covers any costs associated with medically necessary emergency ambulance service not covered by your insurance.

Why do you bill my insurance?

Billing the insurance of those who require ambulance service keeps your annual membership fee affordable.

Is this an insurance policy?

No, LifeMed is a membership program, not an insurance policy. Part of the LifeMed membership application includes the provision for LifeMed to bill your insurance whenever you or a family member use the ambulance.

What is not covered?

As a general rule, patients that are not seriously sick or hurt and can safely ride in a sitting position would not qualify for the emergency ambulance service. Always consult the District office for guidelines and your physician for advice.

Your $65 stays in the community to provide rapid response, high quality rescue and medical equipment, and advanced training for our paramedics, Emergency Medical Technicians, and Quick Response Teams (QRT's). Thank you for your support.

Join the largest and most successful ambulance membership program in the nation. LifeMed is a FireMed participating agency. Your membership covers you in all of Lane County and throughout much of Oregon— over 45,000 square miles.

PROTECT YOUR FAMILY AT HOME, AT WORK & AT PLAY.
