

THE RECORD

PeaceHealth, city host health care 'town hall' tomorrow

The City of Florence and PeaceHealth Medical Group are sponsoring a health care Town Hall Thursday, Aug. 18, to inform the community about the national provider shortages, the impact this is having on the greater Florence area and what PeaceHealth is doing to shore up these critical resources.

The public is invited to participate in this free event from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. on Aug. 18, at the Florence Events Center, 715 Quince St.

During this forum, PeaceHealth leaders will address issues including:

- Nationwide health care provider shortages and the challenges of hiring for the Florence market.

- What action plans have been/will be implemented by PeaceHealth to recruit permanent and temporary providers for the area.

- How PeaceHealth will keep its patients informed when new providers become available.

The City of Florence and PeaceHealth recognize the recent provider changes can leave our community and patients in a state of unease.

Questions from the public will be solicited before the meeting and included in the discussion.

Florence City Councilors, area officials and prominent community members will also be in attendance.

OBITUARIES

GRAMBUSCH—Henry "Hank The Tank" Grambusch was called home Aug. 6, 2016.

Never was there a gentler, more kindhearted, loving and genuinely compassionate man. His smile lit up the room and his witty sense of humor could make the Grinch himself fall over laughing.

To know Hank was to love him. He was an angel in life and God's strongest warrior in death. Hank was fearless. He saw the silver lining in the darkest of days and never lost hope. He will be forever loved and cherished by his wife of 54 years, Linda.

- National provider shortage trends
- Florence market challenges
