SAILORS BLAZE NEW TRAIL

BY NED HICKSON Siuslaw News

It's been nearly 30 years since the trails winding through the woods in and around Mapleton High School carried the footfalls of cross country runners. But this past Thursday morning, Mapleton junior Cole Spencer and freshman Richie Gastelun were climbing the trail woven between old logging roads before eventually emerging onto the main campus and looping back up the steep hill leading to the mesa of Bill Bowerman Field.

Until he went in to register as a freshman Wednesday, Gastelun didn't even know there was a cross country program at the high school.

"That's mostly because we haven't had one since as far back as 1987," says Aaron Longo, the school's athletic director as well as its track and field coach and, now, cross country coach. "Cole and I talked about it at the end of last football season, and he was committed to doing it if it was a possibility.

"So we made it happen. We started with one runner and, thanks to Richie signing up yesterday, the program has already doubled in size."

Spencer attended running camps over the summer to prepare, including the Tillamook Running Camp.

Also a track athlete, Spencer says he wants to improve his times in the distance races and pace his 5K time at 17:00 this cross country season.

Local man nabs fourth archery 'triple crown'

He's about as close as Florence has to a real-life "Hawkeye."

Jim Campbell competed in the Oregon Bowhunters 3D State Archery Tournament this past July in La Grand, Ore., where his archery skills earned him a first-place trophy in the Oregon State Championship in his class.

The win was the bullseye that completed Campbell's own triple crown by accumulating the top total of points in all three state archery tournaments in his designated class of "Bowhunter Freestyle," which is five fixed pins and release.

Jim Campbell is a multiple state archery triple crown winner.

The competition included indoor shooting at 20 yards; NFAA (National Field Archery Association) marked yardage anywhere from 20 feet to 80 yards; and finally a 3D trail shoot with unmarked yardage anywhere from 3 to 50 yards.

During that same tournament, Campbell also won a trophy for the
