Siuslaw School Board presents award

The Siuslaw School Board met on Wednesday for its monthly meeting at the Siuslaw School District Office on Oak Street.

The Board began the meeting with two special presentations to students. Siuslaw High senior Erick Kimbel was awarded the Citizenship Award for his academic achievements and his athletic contributions to the school.

In addition to Kimbel's award, the board also presented a new exchange student from La Paz, Bolivia, Alvaro Molina, with a gift bag welcoming him to the district. Molina's host family, Dick and Carolyn Booth and Kimbel's parents were in attendance for the presentations.

Molina will be attending school here and, according to the Booths, is acclimating to the culture change.

"Alvaro is enjoying his stay so far, and he will be staying with us for the next school year," said Carolyn Booth.

The board also heard reports from district principals Kerri Tatum, Andy Marohl, and Michael Harklerode. The three Administrators emphasized to the board their focus on the subject of attendance and their efforts on improving the identification and outreach to truant and challenged students. Harklerode told the Board, "We are more focused on communicating to the students the benefits of attending school, rather than relying on the punitive approach."

One of the initiatives discussed in detail was the Positive Behavior Incentive and Support Program. The program has undergone some modifications and these were detailed for the board.

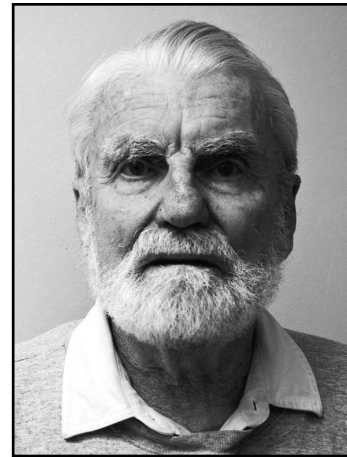

Gray named OCHS Volunteer of the Month

Oregon Coast Humane Society (OCHS) has many dedicated volunteers who give generously of their time and talent each month; all that greatly contribute to the successful achievement of the OCHS mission.

This month, OCHS is honoring volunteer Steen Gray, who has been selected as October's Volunteer of the Month for his many contributions over the past approximately 30 years to this organization.

Steen's wife, Averill Gray, was one of the first volunteers at our animal shelter in the early 1990s, following their move to Florence in 1991. Steen recounted with a chuckle that initially his wife "dragged him along" but, very soon, he became an active and dedicated volunteer himself as well.

Over the years, Steen took it upon himself to learn how to use a digital camera and then began shooting the photographs of the dogs and cats. The shelter had no website at the time but clearly was in need of one, so he "self-taught" himself again, this time on how to design and build a website. It's one that served the shelter for many years.

Co-workers and supervisors describe him as "super reliable," and "someone who can be counted on to do what is needed." Steen has continued to be an invaluable volunteer maintaining the computer systems and whatever else has been asked of him over the many years. His dedication to the animal shelter is greatly valued and appreciated.

OCHS congratulates and thanks Steen for his continuing dedication to the animals and the shelter's mission.

Volunteers serving in every capacity are the heart and soul of OCHS. If you can give a few hours a week to walk a dog, work in the shelter office or in the shelter's thrift shop on Bay Street, work on a fund raiser (such as the upcoming Christmas Store) or any of a host of other tasks that volunteers perform, call (541-997-4277) and ask to speak with Sandy Davidson, OCHS Volunteer Coordinator.
