Don't join the book burners. Don't think you are going to conceal thoughts by concealing evidence that they ever existed.

—Dwight D. Eisenhower

If we are to survive, we must have ideas, vision, courage. These things are rarely produced by committees. Everything that matters in our intellectual and moral life begins with an individual confronting his own mind and conscience in a room by himself.

—Arthur M. Schlesinger, Jr.

I don't think that a leader can control to any great extent his destiny. Very seldom can he step in and change the situation if the forces of history are running in another direction.

—Richard M. Nixon

A billion here, a billion there, and pretty soon you are talking big money.

—Everett M. Dirksen

The legitimate object of government is to do for a community of people whatever they need to have done, but cannot do at all in their separate and individual capacities.

—Abraham Lincoln

They have plundered the world, stripping naked the land in their hunger. They are driven by greed, if their enemy be rich; by ambition, if poor. They ravage, they slaughter, they seize by false pretenses, and all of this they hail as the construction of empire. And when in their wake nothing remains but a desert, they call that peace.

—Tacitus
