Headlining this year's Winter Music Festival will be Danny O'Keefe (above), who will be joined by nine other bands during the two-day festival, including returning favorite Pretty Gritty (right).

This year's Winter Music Festival will bring nine bands and headliner Danny O'Keefe, best known for his hit single "Good Time Charlie's Got the Blues."

Among the bands performing at the two-day music festival will be Cabin Fever NW, RJ Ballard, Ian McFeron, Halie and the Moon, Pretty Gritty, Midnight Darlins, Castletown, The Colin Trio, as well as Haley Johnsen, who will open for O'Keefe.

The festival will take place Saturday, Jan. 14, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Sunday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., with O'Keefe headlining Saturday at 7 p.m. An addition to live musical acts, an artisan fair and food sampling broaden the festival's traditionally tasty menu.

The two-day event is an exciting and diverse bright spot in what can be a dreary time in the Pacific Northwest. It draws attendance from up and down the West Coast from among those who enjoy quality Americana, bluegrass, contemporary folk music and rising performers from the Pacific Northwest.

The festival's Artisan Fair will feature dozens of artists and crafters exhibiting and selling their wares during and between concerts. The fair will be from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Sunday.

Admission to the Artisan Fair is free.

In 1968, this year's headliner, O'Keefe, was a member of a four-man heavy psychedelic rock band named Calliope. The group recorded one album, "Steamed," for Buddah Records before disbanding.

O'Keefe received national acclaim for "Good Time Charlie's Got the Blues" in
