

Nhance Wood Renewal

Our customers can be described this way: they are unhappy with the current look of their cabinets either due to them looking outdated or worn. They don't want to do a full remodel due to budget and/or disruption. They are shocked by the cost of replacing with quality cabinetry or refacing with quality doors. They want their cabinets to look better, more contemporary, cleaner, and as like new as possible, and have some money left in the budget for other things.

Nhance Revolutionary Wood Renewal was born over 15 years ago, and has gradually expanded to become the largest, most successful wood renewal business in the country. The success of our process is due to the unique needs that we meet for our customers. The Nhance process is designed to refinish existing wood surfaces without traditional methods that are messy, disruptive, caustic and sometimes ineffective.

With Nhance Revolutionary Wood Renewal, the customer has the choice of either renewing their cabinets to get them to be "as new" as possible or the customer may choose to change the color entirely. The customer can choose to go darker wood tone and maintain the look of the grain or choose an opaque color, such as white, cream, gray, black, ect., which will hide the color of the grain.

Nhance does NOT use paint. There is no lacquer, acrylic or latex products used. Paint grade products are not reliable in their wearability nor are they easy to clean. The Nhance process provides our customers with a factory grade finish using the most researched, most developed poly-urethane finishes available. A basic renewal (no color change) usually takes one day to complete and a full color change can take a week or longer depending on the amount of cabinetry. So, how much does it cost? That depends on the service that the customer chooses and the size and scope of the kitchen. A basic Renewal for a modest sized kitchen averages $1,200 to $1,500 and a full color change for the same size kitchen will average $3,800 to $5,000. Again, these are averages and there are several things that can impact the investment. Typically, our cost is about 1/2 to 3/4 the cost of refacing, and much, much less than replacing cabinets.

C James Nursery

C James Nursery specializes in Down Under Pots, an innovative way to display the beauty of your favorite plants. Designed to hang, the Down Under Pot allows your plants to grow from the bottom of the pot.

One of the design features of the Down Under Pot is an internal reservoir, at the base of the pot. The reservoir catches water where the root system is developing, thus feeding the plant and providing the root system with a wall upon which to anchor. It's a simple process to plant.

Start the normal way, with the pot full of "soil" and the plant at the top. Allow the pot to remain in this "normal" position until you are satisfied that the plant is established. Then invert the pot and hang it using the wire, which is already fitted to the pot for the purpose. The plant has established its root system and is now growing in the potting mix in the Down Under Pot.

It is the design of the pot and the established root system of the plant that keep both the plant and the potting mix from falling out.

When the pot is in the initial position, sit it in a shallow container to keep the potting mix moist while the plant establishes. Once the pot has been inverted and is hanging in position, water and fertilize through the top of the pot.

We have four sizes and 20 colors of Down Under Pots in addition to eight different colors of Martha Washington geraniums, herbs, succulent and other plants to be potted for a small fee.

If you have a Down Under Pot, clean it out, bring your coconut fiber and we'll repot it for you. Stop by our booth to learn more.
