Book Review "Stolen Beauty" by Laurie Lico Albanese

From the dawn of the twentieth century to the devastation of World War II and beyond, "Stolen Beauty" by Laurie Lico Albanese, an exhilarating novel of love, war, art and family gives voice to two extraordinary women and brings to life the true story behind the creation and near destruction of Gustav Klimt's most remarkable paintings.

In the dazzling glitter of 1903 Vienna, Adele Bloch-Bauer — young, beautiful, brilliant, and Jewish — meets Gustav Klimt.

Adele embraces Klimt's rene-gade genius as the two awaken to the erotic possibilities on the canvas and beyond.

Although they enjoy a life in which sex and art are just beginning to break through the façade of conventional society, the city is troubled by a disturbing increase in anti-Semitism.

Nearly 40 years later, Adele's niece Maria Altmann is a newlywed when the Nazis invade Austria and overnight her beloved Vienna becomes a war zone.

When her husband is arrested and her parents are forced out of their stately home, Maria must summon the courage and resilience that is her aunt's legacy if she is to survive and keep her loved ones and their history alive.

Impeccably researched and lushly rendered, "Stolen Beauty" intertwines the tales of two remarkable women across more than a hundred years.

It juxtaposes passion and discovery against hatred and despair, and shines a light on our ability to love, destroy, and above all, to endure.

Laurie Albanese has published fiction, poetry, journalism, travel writing, creative non-fiction, and more.

Local Author Tarno Greene Discusses Brain Injury

Don't forget that local author Tarno Greene will speak at the library this Friday, March 24, at 2 p.m., about her book, "I'm Inside, Y'Know: Traumatic Brain Injury and You."

Traumatic Brain Injury, PTSD, Alzheimer's, brain infection, senility and other compromised conditions all have common symptoms.

And all the symptoms are frustrating.

"I'm Inside Y'Know" is helpful for those of us with infinite patience and minimal expectation.

It's an essential necessity for the impatient, emotionally distanced and/or faraway, busy multitaskers, those unfamiliar with mental conditions and goal oriented people.

It is perfectly all right to see yourself in that list. This book will help with acknowledging the presence of brain injury, soul searching about what you can contribute, offers resources, and helps make you feel better about yourself when someone with a brain injury enters your life.

Author Robert Leo Heilman to read from his books

Robert Leo Heilman, author of "The World Pool: A Literary Variety and Overstory — Zero: Real Life in Timber Country" will be reading from his books on Thursday, March 30, at 6 p.m. at the Florence library.

Heilman, from Myrtle Creek, Oregon, has worked in the timber industry as well as many other occupations, and is a strong library supporter.

His essays are about small-town life in timber country Oregon. This after-hours program is free, open to the general public and light refreshments will be available.

Pacific Coast Wind Ensemble to perform in Newport

The Pacific Coast Wind Ensemble will perform a benefit concert Sunday, March 26, at the First Presbyterian Church in Newport, beginning at 2 p.m.

The program will feature marches, medleys, show tunes, a Dixieland number, an overture or two and more. Plus something special: To highlight the closing of Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Baily Circus, the band will cover that most iconic of circus marches: "Entry of the Gladiators."

The band is currently led by directors Tom Muller, from Waldport, and David Olson, from Florence. Both have had extensive experience with school and adult bands, and have been active in the local music scene for a number of years.

Their knowledge and enthusiasm have combined to create a very lively program for the band's annual Spring Concert North. The band plays three scheduled concerts per season, Spring Concerts in Newport and Florence, the Seasonal Celebration concert in Yachats, plus less formal ones at the Oregon Coast Aquarium, Waldport High School graduation and Florentine Estates.

Besides playing concerts to entertain local communities, PCWE has two other main functions: benefiting local non-profits, such as Habitat for Humanity, and awarding scholarships to local student musicians. Details and applications for these scholarship are available on our website.

PCWE is a non-audition community band serving the central Oregon coast.

Members come from as far north as Neotsu and as far south as Florence to rehearse once a week alternately in Waldport and Florence.

Musical background and age range from professional to recreational amateur and from geriatric to high school. All are welcome to join, the only requirements are having an instrument and being able to read music.

A donation of $10 per person is suggested, with steep discounts for families. Proceeds from this concert will be donated to Newport Habitat for Humanity. Non-perishable groceries will also be collected for Newport Food Panty.

For further information, contact Eric Bigler, band secretary, at 541-563-7642 or email him at ebigler@europa.com.

Surfriders to celebrate historic Beach Bill celebrated at library

Join Surfrider Foundation's Oregon Policy Manager and members of the Siuslaw Chapter in celebrating 50 years of Oregon's Beach Bill.

A discussion about this groundbreaking legislation will be held on Monday, March 27, at 6:30 p.m., in the Bromley Room at the Siuslaw Public Library.

The evening will feature a special presentation about this landmark legislation and how this year presents us with legislative opportunities to renew our investment in Oregon's beach legacy.

Oregon's 362 miles of public ocean beaches are the signature feature of the Oregon coast.

Oregon beaches remain wild and rugged, due primarily to the 1967 Beach Bill legislation, which forever granted public access and limiting development on our dry, sandy beaches.

In this anniversary year celbrate and advocate for continued protection of Oregon's coastal beach legacy.

Whether an inland day-tripper, weekend warrior or die-hard coastal resident, beaches are our birthright and a place of cultural, recreational and economic significance.

Unfortunately, Oregon's beaches face increasing problems of visitor safety, access, increased marine debris, beachfront armoring, sand removal and a rising and expanding range of recreational uses.

These issues are driven by growing tourism in all seasons, unabated demand for ocean front development, and increasingly severe storm and erosion events due to climate-driven changes in the ocean, all of which are likely to persist.
