April 18 deadline for personal income tax

The Department of Revenue is reminding Oregonians that the deadline to file their 2016 personal income tax return is Tuesday, April 18.

The department is expecting 2.2 million returns this year, said Megan Denison, the policy and systems manager for the Personal Tax and Compliance Division.

Oregon honors filing extensions issued by the IRS, but an extension to file is not an extension to pay.

Interest on your tax due starts accumulating on April 19, the day after the return is originally due. If you can't pay your taxes, contact the department. Based on your financial situation, they may be able to set you up on a monthly payment plan.

If you owe taxes and need to make a payment, the department's field offices can no longer accept cash, but they do still accept payments by check, money order, or credit or debit card.

If you need to make your payment in cash, you'll need to go to the department's main office in Salem.

You can make electronic payments directly from your checking or savings account or by credit or debit card through Revenue Online, the department's self-service site. You'll need a valid email address to make a credit or debit card payment online or in their offices.

For information or to set up a Revenue Online account, visit www.oregon.gov/dor.

Here are a few tips and reminders for those who haven't filed their returns yet: E-filing is the fastest way to get your tax refund.

For more information, visit www.oregon.gov/dor and search for "free tax preparation services."

Anyone who needs a personal income tax return booklet can order it through the Department of Revenue.

According to the IRS, many taxpayers who appeared to be eligible for the federal Earned Income Tax Credit didn't claim it in past tax years. For more information about the credit and eligibility, visit the IRS website at www.irs.gov.

Visit www.oregon.gov/dor to get tax forms, check the status of your refund, or make tax payments, call 800-356-4222 toll-free (English or Spanish) or 503-378-4988 or email questions.dor@oregon.gov.
