FRAA offers 'Blank Page' writers workshop

Many people feel inspired to write and know there is a writer lurking within but often feel paralyzed by the blank page. Even experienced writers can become stuck and struggle to begin flowing their ideas into substance onto paper.

"The Blank Page: Tips to Conquer and Master It" will take place on Saturday, April 22, from 10 a.m. to noon. The workshop will be held at the Florence Regional Arts Alliance (FRAA), 120 Maple Street in Old Town.

Presented by "Writers on the River," the class will show writers of all levels and genres how to overcome the blank page and get their writing going and flowing.

Together participants will explore the world of possibilities presented by the blank page and learn tips for filling it with words that form powerful prose.

Instructor Catherine J. Rourke is an award-winning writer, author, journalist and columnist with more than 30 years' staff experience at daily newspapers, national magazines and major publishers. Educated at the City University of New York, the University of Oxford/England and the Walter Cronkite School of Journalism.

"Writers on the River" offers monthly classes at FRAA to help writers of all levels enrich their craft.

As a literary support group open to all aspiring and experienced writers, it provides conversation, mentorship, education and literary events in an inspiring atmosphere.

Workshops fill up quickly, so pre-registration is required. Cost: $20 for FRAA members and $25 for non-members, payable at the door.

Friends of Florence Van Fans serve community

Each weekday the Friends of Florence van offers a free shuttle service for cancer patients receiving radiation treatments from health centers in the Willamette Valley, driving from Florence to Eugene and Springfield.

For more than 30 years, the van has transported nearly 30,000 patients to their radiation treatments at the Willamette Valley Cancer Institute and Research Center in Eugene and Oregon Urology Institute in Springfield.

The volunteer-driven van, which relies on individual contributions and Van Fans fundraisers to cover costs of gas and upkeep, stops for patients in Florence, Mapleton, Walton, Noti and Veneta.
