STEPHEN—Shirley Irene Stephen passed away April 23, 2017.

She was born to Ralph and Lydia Ruff Blin in Deaconess Hospital of Spokane, Wash. Seventeen years later, she started her nurses training at that same Deaconess Hospital under the Cadet Nurse Corps.

Upon graduation, she worked at the Veterans Hospital and St Vincent's Hospital in Portland, Oregon.

She married Donald Stirling Stephen and enjoyed a happy married life with him for 60 years. After a short hiatus to start a family, she resumed her career at WillametteView Manor in its convalescent center as a patient care manager.

When her husband retired in 1988, they moved to their vacation home on the Siuslaw River and enjoyed their retirement years traveling, fishing, boating and playing card games with close friends and neighbors.

All through her life, she took various classes to learn something new — from belly-dancing to Shakespeare.

Gardening was her big love and she was proud of raising most of the vegetables they ate along with many beautiful flowers "that soothe my soul," she often said.

Survivors include a daughter and two sons, nine grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

Remembering Elizabeth Breon, 1954-2017

What do I think of when I recall Liz? Her vibrancy, living her life with enthusiasm and zest, her many talents, her creativity and most of all, her big, generous heart. She had so many talents it must have been confusing at times for her. She could play the harp and piano, one of her last projects was making a silk quilt, she gardened, was a fine painter, also an excellent carpenter, designed and repaired jewelry, became a gemologist, and owned and ran a jewelry store.

When living in Alaska, she flew airplanes. More than one of her acquaintances ran short of money and Liz would make sure they had food. She was a devoted Christian, and true to her faith, she fed the hungry, and cared for the sick. The writer can attest to the latter. She was always good for a donation to worthy causes and never lost her robust sense of humor.

This city will miss Elizabeth Breon, our friend liz.
