

Peace Harbor volunteers make a difference

The PeaceHealth Peace Harbor Medical Center volunteer team consists of 117 members who, in 2016, volunteered 24,150 combined hours in service to patients and caregivers.

They volunteer in a variety of areas, including the lobby, same day surgery, hospital gift shop, patient advocacy and more.

In addition, every year the Peace Harbor volunteers make a donation to the PeaceHealth Peace Harbor Foundation for services, programs or equipment that the hospital designates as high priority.

These dollars are raised through fundraising events put on by the volunteer group and the sales raised from the hospital gift shop.

This year, along with volunteering thousands of hours of their time, Peace Harbor volunteers donated $10,400 to Peace Harbor Medical Center.

These dollars will go on to support the Palliative Care program and purchase much needed supplies, such as temporal thermometers, a food warmer for the cafeteria, crosses for patient rooms and a magazine rack and book shelf for the lobby.

Fanny's first family-friendly show takes on childhood faves

"It looks like she's the queen!"

Florence's first drag queen, Jason Wood's Fanny Rugburn, will take the audience on a trip through fantasy Saturday, July 15, with "Drag Me to Neverland," her first family-friendly show.

The show begins at 8 p.m. at Class Act Theatre, 509 Kingwood St., in Florence.

Tickets are $10, and all ages are encouraged to attend.

The audience won't be left frozen as Fanny, again accompanied by the wicked Ana Khonda, played by Matthieu Korso, sings songs and tells stories about
