

Spirituali-Tea celebrates Bahá'í founder in October

On Monday, Oct. 2, at 6:30 p.m., the public is invited to join a group of people who enjoy finding the common grounds in diverse spiritual thoughts and paths.

This October, Spirituali-Tea will be celebrating the 200th anniversary of the birth of Bahá'u'lláh, one of two prophets that are the central figures in the Bahá'í faith, a worldwide religion that extols the essential worth of all religions, along with the unity and equality of all people.

For the next several weeks, Spirituali-Tea will be marking Bahá'u'lláh's birth, which is considered a holy day by the Bahá'í faith, by focusing on his life and teachings.

The Monday gathering will end at 8 p.m. with prayers for the requests left in the Prayer Pole in the garden of the Florence Playhouse and those shared by the group.

For more information, contact Suzanne Mann-Heintz at 541-590-0779.

Teacher to present WWII Remembrance Oct. 7

Step back in time to the 1940s and delve into a World War II mystery involving B-

24 Liberator bombers, the women who waited for their safe return, in a story of a young love separated by war and reunited by death.

Retired teacher Gail Elliott Downs will be sharing the journey she took with her former fifth-grade students as they celebrated events of the 50th anniversary of WWII that resulted in her book, "The Blacksuitcase Mystery — a World War II Remembrance," at the Oct. 7

Military Heritage Day sponsored by the Oregon Coast Military Museum.

Downs grew up as an "Army brat" whose mother was an Army nurse and her father served during WWII. She herself became an "Army Wife."

As a teacher she wanted to introduce her students to history as well as hands on experience in what turned out to be a four year study.

Downs will present her story Saturday, Oct. 7, at 2 p.m. at Sam Spayd's hangar at the Florence Municipal Airport off Kingwood Street.

There is no cost for admission, although seating may be limited.

For more information or to RSVP, visit www.oregoncoastmilitarymuseum.com or call 541-902-5160.

Oregon Coast Military Museum is at 2145 Kingwood St. in Florence. It is open to the public Thursday through Saturday, from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m.
