COYLE—One year ago on Oct. 30, 2016, Robert James

Robert Coyle

Coyle Jr. continued his journey towards God.

Those who loved him here still do, and those upstairs who loved him have him now.

Born March 27, 1944, in Newburyport Mass., Bob was a carpenter and electrician by trade, until forming his own weed abatement business in Southern California.

After retiring to the Oregon coast to become a caregiver for his elderly parents, he found great joy in his fishing boat and his rescued St. Bernard, Pup.

Now we know he's happy riding the fastest dirt bike, rafting the highest wave, spelunking the darkest cave, walking the highest girder, diving the deepest ocean ravine, setting up the most complex computer ever and enjoying every minute of his new life.

We know this for certain because that's the way Bob always handled things here on earth.

Once again, Bob is reunited with his son, Robert Coyle III, his parents, Robert and Ruth Coyle; his sister Melissa; niece Julie and all his many rescued creatures.

Missing him here, he leaves his brother Pete; his sister Susan and her husband Gary Streit; his best friend David Russell; many nieces and nephews; and his big girl, Pup.

Thanks so much for being a part of our lives, Bob.

You added love, color, excitement and strength, and hopefully we are all making you proud — for now we truly realize that you were definitely the smart one.
