Protecting Your Assets

Three Simple Ways To Keep Your Information Safer

(NAPSA)—It seems as though data breaches affecting millions of Americans are constantly in the news these days. If this makes you anxious about the safety of your personal information, that's understandable.

You can protect your data by using secure internet connections rather than public Wi-Fi when you're providing sensitive information such as financial account numbers online; sending bill payments from public mailboxes and collecting your mail promptly; shredding documents that contain your personal information when they're no longer needed; keeping your computer and mobile device safe against malware that may be lurking in email attachments, pop-ups and banner ads; downloading apps and other programs only from trusted sources; and being wary of anyone who contacts you unexpectedly asking for it. You can also use the security settings on social media sites to restrict who can see your posts. But when businesses have your data, you can't control how well it's safeguarded.

According to Consumer Federation of America, there are some easy steps that you can take to make it harder for fraudsters to use your personal information.

- Create separate passwords for your most sensitive accounts. While it's convenient to use the same password for everything, crooks know that, so if they get your password for one account, they'll try it to log into accounts on other websites. Any account that has your financial information, Social Security number or other sensitive data should have a unique, strong password to keep would-be intruders guessing.

- Beef up your authentication. If your user name, which is often your email address, and a password is all it takes to access your accounts, your defenses are relatively weak. Two-factor authentication—your password plus something that only you have, such as a one-time code that is sent to you as part of the log-in process—provides much stronger protection.

- Freeze your credit file. This prevents identity thieves from opening new credit accounts in your name because the lenders won't be able to access your credit record. Since some landlords and employers also check applicants' credit records, freezes can also stop fraudulent attempts to get jobs or rent apartments using your identity. Contact the three major credit-reporting agencies—Equifax, Experian and TransUnion—to request a security freeze. You can lift the freeze anytime you need to and reset it. In some situations, you may be able to do this free; otherwise, there will be a small fee.
