Find solutions for home & garden needs this weekend

If you've got a list for home improvement projects, bring it with you to this weekend's Florence Home & Garden Show. The Florence Events Center will be packed Friday through Sunday with vendors featuring products and services for just about everything you'll need.

Thirty-eight vendors will offer new ideas, products and services. The show incorporates vendor exhibits, landscape design, food tasting, demonstrations, prizes and giveaways into the upbeat, warm and intimate atmosphere of the events center, explained show director Jon Thompson.

This year's show begins Friday, when doors will be open from 2 to 6 p.m. Then again on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and it closes after Sunday's showing, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Admission is just $2 for adults and $1 for children 12 and under. Half price coupons are available at Bi-Mart, while they last. If you're coming to the show late Saturday, you'll be pleased to know that you can get in for free between 4 p.m. and closing.

Dozens of vendors will come to the Florence Events Center from March 2 to 4 for the Florence Home and Garden Show. Taste samples, test products, observe demonstrations and hear from local and regional vendors all three days of the show.

Central Lincoln PUD will be giving away advanced power strips produce with Winter Green Farm. Kitchen Craft will be demonstratwhile they last in honor of its 75th anniversary this year. The Siuslaw Chapter of the American Rhododendron Society will be giving away a rhododendron plant every hour of the show.

Celia's Gourmet Foods, Spiritopia Liqueurs and Kimmo's Dips will give attendees a taste of home and you can sign up for fresh ing its innovative low-fat cookware and offering tasty samples.

A Breath of Spring is the theme of the centerpiece design by Laurel Bay Gardens. The local nursery's display has been the focal point for the show since its inception and this year it will showcase new growing techniques and fresh design concepts for coastal gardens.

Laurel Bay Garden's display will include new products for the grow-your-own gardeners, including Hydrodynamics rooting trays, new potting soils specific for optimum growing in pots, and new lines of organic fertilizers, according to Lisa Walter Sedlacek, who, along with her husband David,
