First Tuesday Open Mic Night set for March 6

Florence Big Wave First Tuesday Open Mic will be hosted this month by the Florence Regional Arts Alliance, located at 120 Maple St., on Tuesday, March 6.

The evening will begin at 6:30 p.m.

The pubic is invited to participate in the Florence Big Wave Poetry sponsored event with a favorite poem, story and prose.

The event is free. For more information, email bigwavepoetry@gmail.com.

FACC to host talk from school superintendent, board member

On Wednesday, March 7, from 9 to 10:30 a.m., the Florence Area Community Coalition (FACC) will host Andy Grzeskowiak, superintendent of Siuslaw School District and Suzanne Mann-Heintz, president of the Siuslaw Education Foundation, to speak about current and future projects and events in local schools.

The Siuslaw School Board and the superintendent have established priorities in technology, graduation rates, career and technical education and facilities upgrades.

The Siuslaw Education Foundation is working in conjunction with the schools both in Florence and Mapleton, to raise funds to support these education priorities.

The featured agency for this month is KXCR Community Radio. Participants are invited to make donations to KXCR to keep this valuable community resource up and running.

KXCR offers commercial-free radio to communities throughout the Siuslaw region.

Some programs are produced locally; others are subscribed to through networks of public broadcasting agencies. It takes about $20,000 per year to keep KXCR on the air.

FACC hosts meetings on the first Wednesday of each month at the Siuslaw Public Library. It also hosts an annual Volunteer Recognition Event, coming Wednesday, April 11, from 1 to 3 p.m. at the Florence Events Center.

This year, FACC celebrates its 30th birthday. Plans are in progress for the second "Aging in Place Forum" on June 22, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Florence Events Center.

For more information, call 541-999-2927.

Three Rivers hosts Community Job Fair

Three Rivers Casino Resort will be hosting the Third Annual Community Job Fair on Thursday, March 8, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. This Community Job Fair is free to participating businesses and job seekers. Last year's event brought an estimated 300 participants and this year's event plans to be even bigger.

Pam Hickson, Recruitment Specialist at the Confederated Tribes of Coos, Lower Umpqua and Siuslaw Indians, said, "We all know it can be challenging for both businesses and applicants to locate resources and to apply for jobs. This year's Community Job Fair will bring everyone together with the common goals of hiring and being hired."

This is an ideal opportunity for businesses to reach out to interested applicants and talk with them in person before the peak busy season. It is also a chance for job seekers to bring their resumes before a wide variety of fields.

Three Rivers Casino Resort is opening up its events center for the third annual Community Job Fair this Thursday, featuring 44 organizations actively seeking employees.

For additional information, visit the events Facebook page.

To date, 44 businesses have confirmed their participation including Three Rivers Casino Resort/Confederated Tribes of Coos, Lower Umpqua and

Siuslaw Indians City of Florence, Heceta Lighthouse Bed & Breakfast, Florence-area businesses, businesses outside of the area and services including the military, the food and beverage industry, trade, education, healthcare, volunteer opportunities and more.

Historian to speak at library about Oregon writer Haycock

Siuslaw Public Library will once again welcome historian and author Richard Etulain to the library on Friday, March 9, beginning at 1 p.m. in the Bromley Room at the main branch in Florence.

Etulain will discuss his newest book, "Ernest Haycock and the Western," in which the author writes about the importance of Haycock's contribution to Oregon's literary history.

Etulain has focused on the history of the West for most of his career. He is a professor emeritus at the University of New Mexico who has taught history, English and American Studies at a number of universities for over 40 years. He is also the author of dozens of history books and hundreds of essays. In his most recent work about Haycock, Etulain explores the Oregon writer's contributions in the development of the fictional Western and traces the Haycock's ascending career from a University of Oregon student writer to his success as a frequent and well-known contributor to popular magazines including Collier's and The Saturday Evening Post.

Etulain explains that his slide-illustrated talk about Haycock "will draw the attention of listeners to one of Oregon's major writers and cast light on earlier achievements in the state's rich literary history."

Etulain, the son of a Basque immigrant, has received numerous awards for his work, including the Caughey and Western Heritage awards. He has also been nominated for the Pulitzer Prize.

Fellow historian, Glenda Riley, said, "The magic of Dick Etulain's books are that they combine solid history with fascinating reading. Want to know about the American West? Etulain will make it live for you."

The accomplished author, historian and editor currently lives in Clackamas, Ore., with his wife, Joyce, a retired children's librarian.

Besides "Ernest Haycock and the Western," Etulain's recent works include "The Life and Legends of Calamity Jane," which was a Western Writers of America Spur Award winner in 2015, and, as co-author, "U.S. Presidents Who Shaped the American West."

Join fellow history buffs, especially those fond of the Western genre and our state's literary history, for this extraordinary opportunity to hear Etulain share his expert insight into one of Oregon's major writers and learn a bit about Oregon's rich literary history.

This program is free and open to the public and will appeal to everyone interested in learning about Haycock's career and contributions to Oregon literature.

Copies of "Ernest Haycock and the Western" will be available for purchase at the end of the program.

For more information about this program, visit the Siuslaw Public Library, call 541-997-3132 or visit the library's website at www.siuslawlibrary.org.

NEW FLORENCE FARMERS MARKET SEEKS MARKETING MANAGER

The Florence Farmers Market, which will open on Bay Street on May 15, is looking for a manager with a passion for sustainably grown or produced local foods.

This position requires exceptional customer service skills across a broad spectrum, including working with farmers, volunteers and market attendees.

The market manager will be onsite at the market, which will be open on Tuesdays, from 3 to 7 p.m. The market will include about 10 vendors who will sell locally-produced goods such as fresh produce, eggs, baked items, meat and flowers from within 60 miles of the Siuslaw Region.

In addition to being at the market site, the manager will spend an additional six hours keeping records, processing SNAP tokens and reimbursements, and helping with promotion and marketing, including social media, special market events and partnering with other community businesses.

The proposed start date for this position is March 26 and the ending date will be Nov. 15.

For a complete job description and proposal criteria, please visit www.rivercal.org/marketmanager or email SiuslawVision@gmail.com.

Contractor proposals are due March 15.

The Florence Farmers Market is an initiative of the Siuslaw Vision.
