How To Keep Home Fires From Burning

(NAPSA)—More than 350,000 fires occur each year and often in the homes of seniors. In fact, older adults are consistently more threatened with death or injury by fire than any other age group—but you can keep your home safe by following these safety tips.

Heating Safety

- Keep anything that can burn at least three feet away from heating equipment.
- Don't use your stove for heating.
- Don't dry clothes on a space heater.
- Have your heating system inspected by a qualified service professional at least once a year.
- Make sure all fuel-burning heating equipment is vented to the outside.
- Keep intake and output vents clean and clear of debris and dust.

Space Heaters

- Inspect heaters for cracked or broken plugs or loose connections before each use. If anything is frayed, worn or damaged, don't use the heater.
- Place space heaters on level, flat surfaces and out of high-traffic areas and doorways.
- Plug portable space heaters directly into an outlet; don't use an extension cord.
- Keep space heaters at least three feet away from anything flammable.
- Never leave a space heater unattended. Turn it off when you leave the room

- Fireplaces and Wood Stoves
 - Have your chimney or wood stove inspected annually by a certified chimney specialist.
 - Use a fireplace screen to stop sparks from flying into the room.
 - Never leave an open flame unattended.

Cooking

- Unattended cooking is the leading cause of home fires. If you have to leave, even for a short time, turn off the stove.
- Wear short, close-fitting or tightly rolled sleeves when cooking.
- Keep the stove top and oven clean and free of grease and oil.
- Keep all flammable material away from heating elements.
- Keep towels and pot holders away from hot surfaces.
- Turn pot handles in.

Smoke and Carbon Monoxide Alarms

- Place alarms inside each bedroom, outside each sleeping area and on every level of your home.
- Don't put alarms near windows or ducts where drafts might interfere with their effectiveness.
- Never paint smoke alarms.
- Test them at least once a month and change the batteries at least once a year.
- Keep smoke alarms at least 10 feet away from cooking appliances to minimize false alarms.
- People who have difficulty hearing can get alarms that make low-pitched sounds or vibrations.

Electrical Safety

- Call an electrician if you see a discolored wall plate, smell burning, or hear a crackling or buzzing sound from wall switches or receptacles.
- Never plug two extension cords into each other.
- Make sure all appliances are plugged directly into a receptacle.
- Don't run extension cords through walls or doorways.
- Don't cover cords.
- Avoid nailing or stapling cords.
- Don't substitute extension cords for permanent wiring.
- Have a licensed electrician install an arc fault circuit interrupter (AFCI) circuit breaker or receptacle. AFCIs can prevent 50 percent of home fires.
- Make sure all appliances have been approved by a nationally approved testing laboratory.
- Have your home inspected by a licensed electrician every 10 years to determine if you have the proper electrical equipment.

How To See Actual Government Documents

(NAPS)—You may have been hearing a lot about the workings of your government and its official documents lately—but often they're much easier to see than most people realize.

That's because the Federal Depository Library Program of the U.S. Government Publishing Office partners with 1,150 nationwide federal depository libraries to provide the public with free access to U.S. government documents and informational resources, both current and historic.

There are federal depository libraries throughout the United States and its territories offering all sorts of U.S. government resources. Information is available on such subjects as science, history, health, careers, the military, statistics, travel, citizenship, environment, education, genealogy, and small business management, among others.

The libraries also provide access to official U.S. government documents from the Congress, federal agencies, the White House, and the U.S. courts.

They come in a variety of formats including databases, U.S. government websites, e-books, print books, maps, journals, periodicals, handbooks, pamphlets, charts and more.

In addition, federal depository librarians can provide expert research assistance to help you make the most of these U.S. government information resources.

To find a nearby federal depository library, go to <http://catalog.gpo.gov/fdldir/public.jsp>.

To find a particular U.S. government document, search for it online using the Catalog of U.S. Government Publications. You can then locate a library that has your document or link to it if it's available online at <https://catalog.gpo.gov>.

You can explore all sorts of government resources online and in person.
