Grant to expand Upriver behavioral health services

PeaceHealth Peace Harbor Medical Center has been awarded a Rural Health Care Services Outreach grant. This grant, which totals nearly $600,000 over a period of three years, will greatly expand access to behavioral health services for children and teens in western Lane County.

The project aims to establish two community health and wellness resource centers — one in a Florence school and one in a Mapleton school, with specific locations and operational details being released at a later date.

"We are grateful to our community collaborators on this project, including our Western Lane Behavioral Health Network partners: Lane County Public Health, Options Counseling & Family Service, Trillium Community Health Plan, Siuslaw School District, Mapleton School District and The Child Center," said Jason Hawkins, Peace Harbor chief administrative officer. "Having these centers in the schools will reduce barriers to accessing care, such as knowing who to contact, how to schedule appointments and how to arrange transportation to appointments."

According to Hawkins, students also will be able to get the services they need without leaving school grounds — reducing the social stigma of seeking help.

Children and families will have improved access to early assessment, intervention and behavioral health counseling. Without rapid assessment and early intervention, children's behavioral issues can escalate into behavioral crises. This can lead to attendance and academic problems for students and mounting stress for families.

The mix of services at each center will reflect the community's needs. The Mapleton center, for example, may offer a full range of medical and behavioral health care services for both children and adults because few accessible resources exist in that area.

The Rural Health Care Services Outreach grant is a program of the Health Resources and Services Administration of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

PeaceHealth has approximately 16,000 caregivers, a group practice with more than 900 providers and 10 medical centers serving both urban and rural communities throughout the Northwest.

KXCR invites community to fourth anniversary celebration

On Saturday, April 21, KXCR invites the community to a "Get Together" for its fourth anniversary.

Area listeners are invited to drop by KXCR Community Radio, 1509 Ninth St. in Florence, from 2 to 8 p.m.

"Get Together" to celebrate

Florence's only nonprofit radio station as it continues to shine its little light into the new world of corporate media.

As a way of (re)introducing itself, KXCR 90.7FM has dedicated April 21 to invite fans to meet and greet the station's volunteers, munch some homemade cookies, voice a station promo and find a CD or vintage vinyl to take home.

But before the afternoon is done, people might find an opportunity to sit in with one of our DJs, get a program schedule for the week and ask about getting a thumb drive recording of a favorite show. While they're at it, they will find some time to grab a bite of dinner.

People are also invited to cast a vote for their choice of T-shirt designs, receive a gift certificate for tea and cookies for two at Le Bouchon on Bay Street and, as a special treat, stick around to hear and sing along with KXCR's house band "The Relics" lighting up the back room until the magic hour.

KXCR's board, programmers and volunteers hope to see you for this fun event.

For more information, visit kxcr.net, stop by the station or call 541-997-5252.
