

GENERAL NEWS

Military Museum to expand hours, days of operation

The Oregon Coast Military Museum (OCMM) has announced it is expanding its open days to five days each week, beginning May 1.

Previously, the museum was only open three days each week — Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The schedule is now expanding to Wednesday through Sunday, with the hours from noon to 4 p.m. each day.

"This allows visitors one additional week day and one additional weekend opportunity to visit us," said Chief of Staff Geoff Cannon. "With this change, we're also recruiting additional volunteers who can now work shorter shifts rather than the six-hour shift previously."

Anyone interested in volunteering can contact Cannon at the museum 541-902-5160.

The OCMM is located at 2145 Kingwood St. in Florence.

Rose Hill Road to be closed

Lane County Public Works has announced a road closure that will take place Tuesday, May 1, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. The closure will occur on Rose Hill Road, between milepost 0.20 and 0.35, for a realignment project. There will be no alternate route, so travelers should plan accordingly.

For more information, contact Devon Ashbridge, public information officer, at 541-682-4526.

EARTH DAY 2018

MARK BRENNAN/SIUSLAW NEWS

Members of the Florence Master Recyclers were among the participants in the first Florence Earth Day Festival held on the Port of Siuslaw's boardwalk this past Sunday, April 22. Visitors circulated between booths and listened to music while discussing the importance of a healthy environment and ways to reduce waste and pollution.

Port Hole Books receives national IBD honor

Port Hole Books in Gardiner, Ore., is one of six bookstores nationwide being honored during Independent Bookstore Day by Ingram Book Distribution, the largest wholesale book distributor in the world.

Ingram contacted Port Hole Books owner Ellen Traylor last week, notifying her that the store was one of a handful that would be featured on the IBD blog.

"Indie Bookstores are considered important parts of our communities ... and a home away from home," said Essence Briscoe, Ingram's Marketing Coordinator.

In the spirit of Independent Bookstore Day, Briscoe said the recognition celebrates "all the amazing things [book-sellers] do."

"Port Hole is honored to be one of six bookstores selected to be featured on the Ingram blog for this important day," said Traylor.

The blog article featuring the stores chosen for the honor can be seen at www.ingramcontent.com/blog/Discover-6-Indie-

Bookstores-Celebrating-BookstoreDay-2018

Saturday, April 28, marks the fourth annual Independent Bookstore Day, and is touted in Publishers' Weekly as the "holiday for bookstores."

"Books have been one of the most important parts of my life since childhood," said Traylor. "As a bookseller for 25 years, a published author and publisher, I embrace the world of the book in all its facets."

When asked what makes her store unique, Traylor explained that Port Hole Books is one of the great Oregon Coast bookstores, of which there are only a few left.

Traylor's plans for the April 28 celebration include in-store specials that will be featured on social media.

Traylor invites the public to drop by Saturday, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., when there will be refreshments and a 20 percent discount storewide.

Port Hole Books, 77567 Highway 101 in Gardiner, offers free book searches, appraisals and special orders.

Learn about implications of legislation on healthcare

The Adult Continuing Education Series at Lane Community College has announced its next class, "Is Healthcare Healthy?"

This three-week seminar will be held on successive Fridays, May 4, 11 and 18. Each class is from 1 to 3 p.m.

and will have three to four presenters. Classes will be held in room 103 on the LCC-Florence campus.

Moderators for each class are ACES Steering Committee members Judy Schwartz, Montee Kennedy, Bill Durst, Dave Ripley and Martha Lehr.

The first session, May 4, will focus on recently passed and pending legislation and the possible policy implications of each. This session is intended to be a big picture view of the healthcare landscape.

Speakers are Western Lane County Commissioner Jay

Bozievich, Vanessa Cornwall (Peter DeFazio's healthcare liaison) and Sue Blane, lobbyist for the PeaceHealth Medical System.

Week two will focus on the specific impacts of such legislation on local providers and users. The class will examine policy changes that need to be made and how such legislation will affect the delivery of healthcare in Oregon.

Speakers will include Marty Wilde, Executive Director of the Lane County Medical Society and Dr. Patrick Luedtke, Lee Mercer from Healthcare for All Oregon, and Jesse O'Brien from OSPiRG.

Week three will focus on specific impacts of such legislation on long term care and on advocacy for consumers.

Speakers will be Jon Bartholomew representing the AARP, Karla Martinez from the Oregon Insurance Commission and Kevin Groves, long term care consultant who works at Oregon Pacific Bank.

The classes are free but registration is required.

Call LCC at 541-997-8444 to register.
