WLCF hosting free workshop for local nonprofits June 27

The Western Lane Community Foundation (WLCF) will present a workshop on legacy donations for local non-profits who are interested in growing and establishing endowments in support of their organizations through legacy giving on Wednesday, June 27.

“Endowments allow non-profit organizations to establish long term funding while giving donors the peace of mind that their generous gifts will benefit the organizations they care over the long term,” said Gayle Weiss, Executive Director of Western Lane Community Foundation. “We want to provide a learning opportunity to the non-profits in Western Lane County so they can plan for their future.”

Western Lane Community Foundation is a nonprofit organization chartered for the purpose of receiving, administering and distributing charitable funds for the benefit of residents in Western Lane County.

WLCF’s assets are currently in excess of $7 million with the income from those assets being deployed through grants, endowments and scholarships in Western Lane County.

The workshop will be a collaborative effort between WLCF and the Oregon Community Foundation (OCF), with Sara Brandt, Senior Philanthropic Advisor of OCF, presenting “Understanding and Encouraging Legacy Giving.”

Brandt brings over 30 years of professional experience in development grant making and charitable gift planning to her position at OCF, which currently manages assets of $1.9 billion, comprising more than 2,800 permanent funds; one of which is Western Lane Community Foundation.

OCF is ranked in the top ten community foundations in the United States based on assets.

Weiss will also discuss how WLCF can support and assist local non-profits in establishing new endowments within our community.

The workshop is open to board members and staff of local nonprofits along with individuals who may be interested learning about legacy giving.

The two-hour program will be held at the Bromley Room at the Siuslaw Library, located at 1460 Ninth St., beginning with coffee at 9:30 a.m.

Those interested in attending are requested to R.S.V.P. via email to Western Lane Community Foundation at wlcfc@wlcfonline.org. Please provide the name of your organization and names of attendees by Friday, June 22.

This program is neither sponsored nor endorsed by the Siuslaw Public Library.

This week, Oregon Coast Humane Society (OCHS) continued to move in a proactive manner to address issues of concern to the community, the organization’s members and the Oregon Department of Justice.

OCHS’s recently elected board of directors has already hired Barbara Butzer as interim executive director, and she has taken a hands-on role in reshaping the organization.

Butzer reported that the OCHS Thrift Store on Bay Street in Historic Old Town Florence has reopened. OCHS is also in the process of gathering resumes from candidates to help run the popular venue.

“We are looking to hire a weekend manager for the thrift store and we hope to find someone as soon as we can to help to run the store for us,” Butzer said. “If anyone out there has experience or wants to apply for the position, we encourage them to stop by the store, drop off a resume and talk with us.”

The new OCHS Board has been meeting weekly since being seated in April, and directors want to continue to improve communication between the board and the public by sharing the concrete steps they have taken to restore the positive relationships.

Board President Jack Hannigan especially wants members of OCHS to know their opinions and thoughts are welcome.

“When board members adopted the 2006 by-laws to return to a membership driven organization, we decided to make our meetings more traditional, so there will be a question and answer period after board reports,” Hannigan said.

He added that the next meeting will be on Wednesday, June 20, at at Lane Community College Florence Center in room 103.

“We are having our annual membership meeting, which will be for members only,” he said.

Free screenings of ‘Revenge of the Electric Car’ to include electric car rides June 19

With support from Central Lincoln, the Siuslaw News, KCST Radio and City Lights Cinemas, Florence’s Green Movie, set for June 19, will be two showings of the documentary “Revenge of the Electric Car,” a sequel to “Who Killed the Electric Car?” about Jaguar-esque electric coupes GM leased to drivers in the 1990’s, but later repossessed and dismantled.

A short panel discussions featuring local electric vehicle owners will be held after each showing of “Revenge,” and movie goers will be able to test drive or ride in a Tesla 3 or a Tesla X, as well as the more-affordable Chevy Bolt, Kia Soul and Nissan Leaf.

“Revenge of the Electric Car” shows how four car companies are launching electric vehicles for fans and hoping to win over skeptics.

Director Chris Paine (who also directed “Who Killed the Electric Car?”) obtained unprecedented access to electric car research and development programs at General Motors, Nissan and Tesla Motors, while also following an independent mechanic converting gas-powered cars to electric vehicles.

As more and more models of electric cars arrive in showrooms and driveways around the world, “Revenge” offers an entertaining account of this revolutionary time in transportation.

Paine shows auto makers as they race each other to create the first, best, and most popular electric cars for the new car market, including a surreal exchange between GM’s old guard, and Tesla’s infamous and mercurial Elon Musk.

“We are really excited about these showings of ‘Revenge of the Electric Car’ at City Lights,” says Central Lincoln’s Director of Employee, Customer & Community Services Mark Freeman. “Since the electricity Central Lincoln provides customers is 97 percent carbon-free, customers who drive electric help keep Oregon’s air clean. Driving electric is also cheap — the cost of charging an EV for 1,000 miles in Central Lincoln’s service area is up to 75 percent cheaper than buying gas for 1,000 miles.

“We think customers who test drive an EV after both showings of Revenge will be happily surprised at how quiet and speedy EVs are.”

All who drive an electric car or ride in an electric car after the movie showings will receive a complimentary copy of Electric Car Insider’s ‘EV Buyer’s Guide,’ which includes info on all commercially-available EVs in the U.S., including electric motorcycles and bicycles.

Show times for “Revenge of the Electric Car” are set for Tuesday, June 19 at 1:30 p.m., and at 6:30 p.m.

Free tickets are first-come, first-served, and should be picked up in advance at City Lights Cinemas, 1930 Highway 101, but are limited to four per person.

To sign up to drive or ride in an electric car after the movie showings, send an email to info@clpud.org or call 541-574-2004 and leave a message.
