Rotary grant helps save Siuslaw Outdoor School

Money is tight everywhere and loss of funding from prior sponsors put Siuslaw School District's Outdoor School in danger of being canceled. But the Rotary Club of Florence stepped up with a $10,000 grant and, thanks to that, the program went on as originally scheduled.

Program director and Siuslaw Middle School Principal Andy Marohl and Siuslaw School District Superintendent Andy Grzeskowiak received their check and expressed how thankful they are that the 2018 Outdoor School was able to go on without any issues because of Rotary's grant.

The Outdoor School for Siuslaw School District has been going on for well over 20 years. Due to budget shortfalls in 2008, Outdoor School was cut. In 2015, Ben Wells and Marohl, along with their teams, breathed life back into the program, combining fifth- and seventh-grades for a day camp. This was a grassroots effort where all funding was supported by fundraising, donations and support from a 21st

Earlier in June, Rotary Club member Kim Erickson presents a check to Siuslaw Middle School Principal Andy Marohl and Siuslaw School District Superintendent Andy Grzeskowiak with the help of past Rotary President Craig Sanders.

Century Community Learning Centers grant.

In 2016, the voters of Oregon voted for Measure 99, which provides funding from Oregon Lottery dollars for Outdoor School for all Oregon students in fifth- or sixth-grades. The goal is that the 2019 Siuslaw Outdoor School will go back to the model of overnight camp, like it has been in past years.

The Rotary Club of Florence would have a station at camp during the entire program, where Rotarians would teach lessons and act as mentors.

Marohl, as the principal, would help create and promote a Junior Interact club at the Middle School to build student awareness of what Rotary stands for. Then as students move on to high school they may join the Interact Club, Rotary's official program for high school students.

"We are pleased to provide the funds so that this valuable program can continue through 2018," says Florence Rotary President Craig Sanders. "We see the value in providing this growth experience to the young people of our community."

Apply now for Friends of the Florence Events Center grant

The application period for the Friends of the Florence Events Center (FEC) Performance Grants is nearing its end. Applications should be submitted no later than July 1, 2018, to the group.

The Friends of the FEC provide grants for other nonprofit organizations that schedule performance events for fundraising at the events center, 715 Quince St., throughout the year. The amounts of the grants will be determined at the July monthly meeting of the friends.

Applications are available at the FEC office anytime they are open, Monday through Friday.

For more information, visit eventcenter.org or call 541-997-1994.

Little Log Church in Yachats to host concert Tuesday night

The Little Log Church in Yachats will be the venue for a "double header" musical treat on Tuesday, July 3. The special evening concert will be opened by the Yachats Brass Quintet in the Log Church's garden.

The performance will begin at 6 p.m. and donations are appreciated.

The quintet's outdoor serenade will be followed by a concert by nationally recognized cellist and composer Lori Goldston of Seattle, whose performance will begin at 7 p.m. inside the church's sanctuary.

Goldston describes herself as a "semi-feral spirit." She cannot be boxed into a single genre and is known to wander recklessly across borders that separate genre, discipline, time and geography. She has performed in clubs, cafes, galleries, arenas, concert halls, sheds, ceremonies, barbecues and stadiums, as well as with groups such as Earth and Nirvana. Her work has been commissioned by and/or performed at the Kennedy Center, Seattle International Film Festival and Oregon State University.

The audience can expect the unexpected at any of Goldston's concerts. A donation of $10 per person is suggested for Goldston's concert. The Little Log Church and Museum is located at 328 W. Third St. in Yachats, and seating is limited.
